FORT WAYNE, INDIANA, JUNE 22, 1892.— WEEKLY SUPPLEMENT.

A BATTLE ROYAL

Will be Fought at the Republican Convention in This City Over the Nomination for Governor.

The republican state convention which assembles in this city on the 28th of this month, promises to be a battle royal, and the attendance will be much larger than it was expected it would be a week ago. The local committee are making active arrangements for the gathering, and the delegates will be given good accommodations. The Princess rink, where the convention is to be held, is being rapidly fitted for the sessions, and will be in good shape by the latter part of next week.

There will be a spirited battle over the candidate for governor. The Indianapolis Journal says: "Governor Porter's letter to the Journal, declaring that he could not under any circumstances accept a nomination for governor, has, as it were, let down the bars, and the chances are that there will be no less than half a dozen candidates for the honor before the convention, with Governor Chase in the lead through a number of instructed delegations. Mr. Huston was considerably talked of yesterday, but his warmest friends said that they preferred to see or hear from him again before pressing his candidacy. He has been elected to the national committee, and there is a fair prospect of his being made chairman of it, in which case his friends doubt whether he would care to assume the additional burden of a gubernatorial race. There is considerable talk, also, of bringing out James T. Johnston, of Parke county, who is in the list for attorney-general, for head of the ticket. Mr. Johnston, is a strong man, an ex-member of congress, an ex-soldier, a lawyer of high ability and a practical farmer. He is in the city at present trying a case in chancery before Mr. Mishback. When approached on the subject yesterday he smiled, and said that very few men would refuse such an honor if tendered them, and he was not great enough to be among the few. Smiley N. Chambers has a good following, and perceptibly gained strength by his active work at Minneapolis. It is possible that C. W. Fairbanks, ex-Governor Steele, of Marion, John L. Griffiths, Senator Mount and a few others may be drawn into the race just to make a merry party.

"But with all these strong men in it, it will still be the field against Chase, for the governor and his private secretary have been making the most of their opportunities. A number of counties have instructed for him, and his friends say that he already has enough such instructed delegations to give him the nomination, but they decline to specify further. On the other hand Hon. Smiley N. Chambers says that he has "kept tabs" on the conventions, and but eleven counties of the ninety-two have instructed for Chase. And now comes a little diversion in the governor's own county of Hendricks. W. R. McClelland, of Danville, who has long been an active party worker and is particularly popular with the younger element, is being urged by his friends there to stand for secretary of state. It is reported that he has decided to make the race and that a large part of the Hendricks county delegates are for him. This will mean a divided delegation from the governor's home county and a consequent weakening of his chances. The opponents of Chase, as such, are very few, though there are probably enough partisans of other candidates to make several ballots necessary to a nomination. There is little or no effort to concentrate upon one candidate as against Chase, and if such a move is made it will probably be after the balloting is begun."

A RUINED TOWN.

Chicora, Pa., Nearly Wiped Out of Existence.

PITTSBURG, Pa., June 15.—A Chicora, Pa., telegram dated at 4 o'clock this morning says at that hour the fire was thought to be under control. The flames originated in McGilney's restaurant on Slippery Roll street from unknown cause. The water supply gave out almost immediately and the buildings burned like tinder. A bucket brigade was started, but the fire proved uncontrollable, and the people had to get out what wearing apparel they could and flee for their own safety. After an hour and a half delay water was secured from the united pipe line pump station, but the fire had gained such headway that water seemed almost useless. Buildings were torn down by the hook and ladder company and several blown up with dynamite. This, with the supply of water, succeeded in stopping the fire on one side of the street, and gave the citizens and the fire company more encouragement and they fought manfully, several being badly burned by the intense heat. The fire was gotten under control at Westermann Bros.' store, it being nearly finished. Many small dwellings at the rear of the street were entirely destroyed and many families are homeless. It is not thought any lives were lost, as business houses burning gave families a chance to secure safety, otherwise it would have proved fatal to many as the people had all retired. No estimate of the amount of loss sustained has yet been made.

EXCOMMUNICATED.

Bishop Horstmann Punishes a Congregation for Indulging In a Bitter Factional War.

CLEVELAND, June 15.—There was a highly dramatic scene at St. Stanislaus church last night when Bishop Horstmann denied the rites of sacraments to nearly the entire congregation. There has been serious trouble in the church for two weeks, culminating in a riot on Saturday. The bishop has been out of the city. He returned yesterday and at once sent the congregation word that he would address them in the evening. The church was jammed with people. After saying to the people that no power on earth could remove Father Rosinski, the pastor, who is objectionable to a faction, the bishop extended his hands and ordered the congregation to its knees. Then in a solemn voice he said: "I hereby deny the rite of sacrament to all members of this congregation who have participated in these ungodly actions until all shall make public confession of their repentence at the regular services before this congregation." This temporarily excommunicates at least 800 members.

IN MEMORIUM.

Resolutions on the Death of C. G. W. Krauskopf, of Taylor University.

The faculty of Taylor university immediately upon receiving the sad intelligence on Monday morning of the death of their colleague, C. G. W. Krauskopf, of the art department of the university, called a meeting to make appropriate arrangements to show proper regard for his memory at the approaching funeral. A committee was appointed to represent the faculty and also a selection was made of the elder pupils to be present to represent the art department, in which the lamented teacher had done so much able, faithful and skilled service. The following resolutions were adopted:

WHEREAS, God, in his supreme and all wise providence, has seen fit to remove out of this world the soul of our deceased brother and colleague, and

WHEREAS, His connection with the work of this institute, as a teacher of art, was very brief, being confined to the current year, during most of which time he was enfeebled and embarassed by the insiduous approach of a disease with which he has contested bravely for many years, and

WHEREAS, He was nevertheless noted for his cheerfulness, earnestness and efficiency, and so proved the thoroughness of his own art studies and his rigorous fidelity to the highest standard of taste and work among his pupils, and in the course of our acquaintance we had learned to esteem highly as a man and had a growing appreciation of him as a teacher of the noblest of all arts; therefore,

Resolved, That it is with sincere sorrow and with a tender sense of affliction at his apparently untimely departure from among us that we deplore his loss to us, and to the entire community and to that slowly increasing class of young people who manifest such enthusiastic appreciation of the studies he taught.

Resolved, That on our own behalf, and especially on behalf of the pupils in the department in which he labored, we tender to the bereaved mother and other members of the family circle our fraternal and heartfelt sympathy and condolence in this time of their sad bereavement.

Resolved, That a copy of these resolutions be tendered to the mother and other members of the family of the deceased, and be offered for publication to the papers of the city.

SIX SUN STROKES.

The Intense Heat Increases New York's Death List.

New York, June 17.—The weather today is oppressively warm, with about 90 per cent. of humidity in the atmosphere. The thermometer at 9 a. m. indicated 80 and at noon 83. During the twenty-four hours ending at noon today 108 deaths had been reported. Of this number six were due to heat prostration.

A HORRIBLE ACCIDENT.

Eighty-eight Men Drowned by the Falling of a Bridge—Frightful Accidents Elsewhere.

CINCINNATI, Ohio, June 15.—The false work of the new bridge over the Licking river between Covington and Newport, Ky., fell this morning. It is rumored that thirty workmen were drowned.

THE REPORT CONFIRMED.

CINCINNATI, June 15.—A telephone message from Newport confirms the report of thirty lives lost by the bridge false works accident. The false works are gone from pier to pier, sixteen bodies having already been taken out. Assistant Superintendent William Wilson is badly hurt, probably fatally. His back is broken and he is otherwise injured. William Flack, of 118 West Third street, Covington, is hurt about the head. John O'Neil, of 11 East Lemon street, leg broken, internally injured and is dying. The false work was erected by Baird Brothers, of Pittsburg, at their own risk. They were putting in the iron beams for the floor when the weight caused the false work to give way carrying with it the workmen, about thirty in number. The civil engineer who was in charge of the work is James A. Stewart, of Cincinnati, but he was not there when the accident happened. The bridge was being built by the Kenton & Campbell County Bridge company. A complete list of the names of the victims can not be obtained just now.

MORE APPALLING THAN FIRST REPORTED.

CINCINNATI, June 15.—2 p. m.—At twenty-five minutes past 10 o'clock this morning the false work of the new bridge being built over the Licking river between Covington and Newport fell, carrying down with it ninety men The first estimate of the number of lives lost was thirty, but later repots make the total number eighty-eight, among them being Andrew and Albert Baird, the contractors. The construction of the bridge was begun early last fall and will be used for foot passenger and street railway traffic. The piers have been completed and the work of fixing the heavy pieces of iron in place had been begun. A track from the Newport side had been run out on the first pier to the heavy iron. The false work ran up fifty feet from the water. But two men are known to have escaped with their lives. Not a stick of the false work from pier to pier remained, and the river was filled with timbers and iron work, with scores of men struggling for life. News of the terrible accident spread rapidly and soon a crowd of hundreds had gathered and the work of rescuing the bodies was at once begun. By 12 o'clock twenty-two bodies had been taken out and the work was pushed with vigor. Cincinnati patrol wagons responded to a hurried call, and the dead and wounded were carried away as fast as taken out. The accident is supposed to be due to the heavy weight of the iron floor supports, the false work not being strong enough. The killed are as follows: Rod Tarwell, Jeffersonville, Ind.; Dan Arnold, Tom Downing, Wheeling, W. Va.; Vaughn Adams, Cincinnati; Andy and Albert Baird, of Canada, who were on a visit to inspect the work, and the latter had been at the works just two hours before the accident; John O'Niel, Covington, Ky.; James Campau, of Canada; William Hartlan, Jeffersonville, Ind.; John S. Ponser, one arm taken off. Fourteen dead bodies have been taken out on the Newport side, and eight from the Covington side of the river.

CONFLICTING REPORTS.

2:30 p. m.—There are so many conflicting reports as to the number of persons killed that it is impossible to get anything reliable. The first report of thirty killed appears to be nearest the exact number of victims, who were either drowned or crushed to death. Following are additional names of killed: Dick Gorman, of Pennsylvania; Wm. A. Bias, Roanoke, Va.; Charles Stamper, Covington; John Ruby and brother, of Wheeling, drowned; Joseph Zenker, Cincinnati; F. Mure, Newport; William Wesslyn, Newport: Luther Johnson, two unknown at Elizabeths hospital; Culberston, Portsmouth, Ohio; Thomas Randon, O'Brien, Wm. Clark. Among the injured are: Charles Sanford, Dan Buckley, Henry Kramer, Covington, Ky.; Ben Arnold, Girard, Ky.; John Phillips, Newport, Ky.; C. H. Wilkerson, Thomas Laven, B. F. Knight, Alex. Thomas, Henry Teeter, A. B. Phelps, New Albany: R. Kramer, North Carolina; R. F. Kiel, Charles Gresham, Covington, Ky., Frank Wallace, Boston.

CINCINNATI, June 16.—Another section of the Licking river bridge fell at 7 o'clock this morning. Five men were working under it at the time it gave way, but they escaped without injury. Two more bodies were taken out of the wreck this forenoon, but they have not yet been identified.

With the approach of daylight people began to gather on the banks of the Licking river, where the ill-fated bridge went down with its scores of human lives Wednesday, and in a few hours thousands of men, women and children were watching the work of rescuing the bodies yet in the wreck. A half hundred brave men had volunteered their services, and under the direction of the bridge company commenced an earnest search for the dead. Owing to the vast amount of iron on the structure when it fell, the work was difficult and necessarily slow. An hour after it was begun two bodies were found pinned down by heavy timbers. They were taken out, but could not at the time be identified. About 9 o'clock, while the work was being prosecuted, a terrible crash was heard. Another section of the bridge, loosened and tottering on the Newport side, fell carrying with it 2,000 pounds of ropes and pulleys. Five men were at work just under it at the time it gave way, but a warning cry saved their lives. Nearly all of the identified dead have been claimed by relatives. There is yet one body unidentified at Menninger's undertaking establishment. William Baird, the surviving brother of the contractors, has received messages of sympathy from several large bridge companies through the country.

NEW ORLEANS, June 15.—The ferry boat crossing Bayou Lafourche at Napoleonville, Monday night, overturned and precipitated the twelve persons o nboard into the water. It was so dark that it was impossible to give the men any assistance and five of the twelve persons were drowned. They were: Edward Schnieder, Jacob Nardilly, an unknown Italian, Robert Atkins and an unknown negro.

BANGOR, Me., June 15.—A terrible tornado struck this city shortly after 5 o'clock last evening, doing considerable damage. The storm lasted for half an hour, during which time rain fell in torrents. Many buildings were blown down, fences demolished, while trees in all parts of the city were uprooted. The little steamer Annie, which carries excursion parties up and down the river, was caught in the squall a short distance below the Maine Central wharf and capsized. Miss Madeline Adams was the only person drowned. The sixteen other passengers had a narrow escape. They were rescued in an exhausted condition by parties who put out from the shore in small boats.

PAYNTON HANGED

In Attonement for the Crime of Murder and Robbery.

YORK, Pa., June 16.—William Henry Paynton, the strangler of Mrs. Michael Strominger, was hanged in the jail yard here at 10:17 o'clock this morning. Paynton killed Mrs. Michael Strominger at Lewisberry, March 31, 1891, while committing a robbery. Mr. and Mrs. Strominger were an old couple living alone. Paynton oveapowered and bound them, and after getting $800 from a chest, and going to release Mrs. Strominger, he found her unconscious. He applied restoratives, rubbed her arms and chest, and applied a mirror for signs of life, but failing to revive her, went to the office of the village physician and summoned aid. The perpetrator of the deed then fled and was arrested several weeks later at his home in Sullivan county. Daniel Wesley and Franklin Smith, of Harrisburg, were accomplices. They pleaded guilty and were sentenced to ten and fifteen years respectively in the eastern penitentiary. Paynton was thirty-eight years of age, and a professional thief. He had served several year terms in the penitentiary.

NO FUSION.

The Minnesota Democrats Reject Overtures From a Third Party.

ST. PAUL, Minn., June 15.—It was learned last night from Michael Doran, the Minnesota member of the democratic national committee, and William M. Compbell, chairman of the Minnesota state committee, that all negotiations for fusion with the alliance, or People's party are at an end and that there will be no union on either the electoral or the state ticket. It is announced that this action is taken because a poll of the state shows that the democrats are likely to have a plurality this fall with three tickets in the field

ONE HUNDRED KILLED!

A Cyclone Sweeps a Train From the Track—Farm Houses and Barns Demolished.

MINNEAPOLIS, June 16.—A cyclone is reported at Sherbourne, Minn., on the I. & M. division of the Chicago, Milwaukee & St. Paul railroad. It is said to have blown a train off the track and killed several people.

MANKATO, Minn., June 16.—One of the worst disasters that ever visited southern Minnesota occurred between 5 and 6 o'clock yesterday afternoon. The terrible funnel shaped tornado again stalked abroad over the land and laid waste scores of happy homes and sent forty or fifty souls to eternity.

Every report that comes in is worse than preceding ones. The extent of the awful visitation was greater than ever before known in the history of the state, and fortunate indeed it is that no town or village lay in its destructive course. Starting near Jackson, on the Southern Minnesota division of the Chicago, Milwaukee and St. Paul railroad, funnel-shaped clouds swept eastward and passed four miles south of Minnesota lake, and then took a broad circle to the south and passed away south of Wells. Considerable rain has fallen during the afternoon, and about 5 o'clock the atmosphere was almost unbearable. Curious shaped clouds began to form over in the southwest and many people gazed in wonder at the sight. About 5:30 a wind sprang up and off to the west a cyclonic black cloud was seen rapidly advancing and demolishing everthing in its course. It passed two miles north-west of Sherburne, and then east, where it struck a district school house in which were the teacher and eighteen scholars. The building was demolished and the teacher and fifteen scholars killed. At Easton three buildings were destroyed and several people injured. Lindon was visited and many houses were torn from their foundations. One family, consisting of a man, his wife and child, were killed, and others injured. A large grove of trees was completely uprooted. The storm passed on eastward, destroying farm houses, barns and, in fact, everything in its path. At Wells, sidewalks were overturned, store fronts blown in and other damage done. Several men were blown down by the force of the wind. Four miles south of Minnesota lake five farm houses and other buildings were caught in the storm and utterly demolished. Four persons were killed here. The body of one of these, John Brown, was taken out of Minnesota lake this morning. His wife, hired man and a school teacher were also injured. Section men suffered severe injuries. Much damage was done south of Wells, and it is reported that forty to fifty were were killed south and west of that village. As most of the damage was done to the country, reports are slow coming in, but what has already been heard is enough to insure the belief that it was the worst storm ever reported in Southern Minnesota. It is expected that later reports will increase rather than diminish the extent of the damage done as well as the loss of life and personal injuries. Many heartrending scenes occurred during the storm.

ARMY OF THE POTOMAC.

Grand Reunion of the Brave Old Soldiers.

SCRANTON, Pa., June 16.—Ten thousand men marching to martial music from army bands in five grand divisions composed of G. A. R. posts, the Patriotic Sons of America, and many kindred societies, uniformed Odd Fellows and Knights of Pythias, Italian, Polish and Hungarian uniformed organizations, the Irish military unions, the Catholic total abstinence and Pioneer societies passed through the arched avenues and principal streets between the festooned, banner blazened and red white and blue bedecked buildings of this city this morning. The parade was in honor of the reunion here of the Society of the Army of the Potomac. The sight was a grand one and thousands of sight seers witnessed the spectacle and cheered the paraders. The weather was fine and not too warm. The parade was reviewed by the governor, prominent army officers and the survivors of the Army of the Potomac. The latter, after passing the stand in review, took seats thereon.

A SEVERE PUNISHMENT.

A Saloon Man Fined $157,000 for Illegal Traffic.

LANCASTER, Pa., June 16.—Lancaster is a local option town, but she has her "blind tigers." Several days ago H. A. Burdett, a detective, took the matter in hand and began to work up cases against the illicit whisky sellers of Battle Row, a negro settlement. He reported yesterday and five negroes and one white man were arrested on 3,221 warrants. The white man is Frank Turner. He was fined $100 each in 1,577 cases, amounting to $157,700. John Smith, a negro, confessed to 1,585 cases. Burdett believes that Turner's friends will try to do him injury, but he is prepared for trouble.

ONE KILLED, MANY HURT

An Express Train, Running at the Rate of a Mile a Minute, Dashes Into an Engine.

PHILADELPHIA, Pa., June 16. — A wreck occurred on the North Pennsylvania railroad last night which resulted in the killing of one man and the injury of several others. The Doylestown express passes Fort Washington station at the rate of a mile a minute, the fastest made at any point along the road. The Jenkintown shifter was running ahead of the passenger train and in trying to switch on to the down track was caught by the engine of the express. The express locomotive was thrown from the track against the embankment. Both engines were completely wrecked. The engineer of the express train, William Fenton, was killed outright. William Hudson, fireman, was badly scalded and injured internally. Oscar Barnes, baggagemaster, was also seriously injured. Theo. Magill, the express messenger, was seriously injured and it is reported that he died while being brought to Philadelphia. Several of the passengers who occupied seats in the smoking car were injured, but not dangerously. This car was turned upon its side and badly wrecked. Among the injured passengers are George Hulzel, of Ambler, side bruised and cut about the head; J. E. Bodine, of North Wales, rib broken and badly bruised; John K. Willlong of North Wales, hurt about the hip; W. J. Leonard, of Gwynnod, leg broken; John Gustine, of Fort Washington, hands badly cut; Conductor Harry Miller, of Landsdale, scalded and hands cut; Wm. Niece, of Worcester, Face scalded. The engineer on the shifting engine, Patrick Dugan, had one of his hands badly cut. The fireman of the engine was sitting on one of the bumpers when the collision occurred and was thrown a distance of thirty feet, but not seriously injured.

IS HE CRAZY?

A Harrison Delegate Fished Out of the Chicago River.

CHICAGO, June 17.—Alexander White, colored, a delegate from the first Texas district to the recent republican convention at Minneapolis, was fished out of the river here at 4 o'clock this morning by a policeman. When White was taken to the station and dried out he declared that he had been chased into the river by his alternate, a colored man named Taylor, who had been making it unpleasant for him since before the convention. He says Taylor was a Blaine man, and upon White's refusal to vote for the Maine statesman, Taylor and his accomplices drugged him and otherwise maltreated him. They followed him all last night, he declares, and he finally jumped into the river to save his life. The city physician is investigating Mr. White's mental condition today.

CLEAR LAKE.

A Few Items From a Popular Summer Resort.

Correspondence of THE SENTINEL:

CLEAR LAKE, June 17.

Messrs. Valorus and Vandorn Root, with their families, have arrived at Clear Lake, and will occupy their cottages during the season.

Eugene Hardendorf has been at the Grand View house several days. He is remodeling and repainting his cottage.

The new dancing hall and bath house is nearly completed.

The grading and sodding of grounds around the Grand View house and Hotel Lakewood is completed, which makes a grand improvement.

CLARKSON'S SUCCESSOR

Will Probably be Hon. Horace Porter, of New York.

NEW YORK, June 16.—Before leaving for Europe Gen. John C. New, in the course of a conversation, remarked that Hon. Horace Porter would probably succeed Mr. Clarkson as chairman of the republican national committee. General Porter is not now a member of the committee, but should his election be determined upon he would be elected the member from this state and Frank S. Witherbee, who succeed ex-Senator Fassett, would have to step aside to permit his election.

DR. TALMAGE'S SERMON.

HE SENDS A SERMON FROM THE OCEAN.

The Hour of Death and Other Lessons from St. Paul's Farewell—There Is Joy in the Thought of Death as Well as Sadness—Our Friends Gone Before.

A Soul's Departure.

Dr. Talmage is now on the Atlantic, having sailed from New York for Liverpool, for a preaching tour in England, Scotland, Ireland and Sweden. Before visiting Sweden Dr. Talmage will go to Russia, there to witness the reception and disposition of the cargo of breadstuffs on board The Christian Herald relief steamship Leo, which sailed last week for St. Petersburg. Previous to his departure he dictated to his stenographer the following farewell sermon, to be read by the vast and widely scattered audiences whom it is his weekly privilege to address through the medium of the newspaper press. He took his text from II. Timothy iv, 6, "The time of my departure is at hand."

Departure! That is a word used only twice in all the Bible. But it is a word often used in the courtroom and means the desertion of one course of pleading for another. It is used in navigation to describe the distance between two meridians passing through the extremities of a course. It is a word I have recently heard applied to my departure from America to Europe for a preaching tour to last until September. In a smaller and less significant sense than that implied in the text I can say, "The time of my departure is at hand."

Through the printing press I address this sermon to my readers all the world over, and when they read it I will be midocean, and unless something new happens in my marine experiences I will be in no condition to preach. But how unimportant the word departure when applied to exchange of continents as when applied to exchange of worlds as when Paul wrote, "The time of my departure is at hand."

Now departure implies a starting place and a place of destination. When Paul left this world, what was the starting point? It was a scene of great physical distress. It was the Tullianum, the lower dungeon of the Mamertine prison, Rome, Italy. The top dungeon was bad enough, it having no means of ingress or egress but through an opening in the top. Through that the prisoner was lowered, and through that came all the food and air and light received. It was a terrible place, that upper dungeon; but the Tullianum was the lower dungeon, and that was still more wretched, the only light and the only air coming through the roof, and that roof the floor of the upper dungeon. That was Paul's last earthly residence.

I was in that lower dungeon in November, 1889. It is made of volcanic stone. I measured it, and from wall to wall it was fifteen feet. The highest of the roof was seven feet from the floor and the lowest of the roof five feet seven inches. The opening in the roof through which Paul was let down was three feet wide. The dungeon has a seat of rock two and a half feet high and a shelf of rock four feet high. It was there that Paul spent his last days on earth, and it is there that I see him now, in the fearful dungeon, shivering, blue with the cold, waiting for that old overcoat which he had sent for up to Troas and which they had not yet sent down, notwithstanding he had written for it.

If some skillful surgeon should go into that dungeon where Paul is incarcerated we might find out what are the prospects of Paul's living through the rough imprisonment. In the first place he is an old man, only two years short of seventy. At that very time when he most needs the warmth, and the sunlight, and the fresh air he is shut out from the sun. What are those scars on his ankles? Why, those were got when he was fast, his feet in the stocks. Every time he turned the flesh on his ankles started. What are those scars on his back? You know he was whipped five times, each time getting thirty-nine strokes—195 bruises on his back (count them!) made by the Jews with rods of elmwood, each one of the 195 strokes bringing the blood.

Look at Paul's face and look at his arms. Where did he get those bruises? I think it was when he was struggling ashore amid the shivered timbers of the shipwreck. I see a gash in Paul's side. Where did he get that? I think he got that in the tussle with highwaymen, for he had been in peril of robbers and he had money of his own. He was a mechanic as well as an apostle, and I think the tents he made were as good as his sermons.

There is a wanness about Paul's looks. What makes that? I think a part of that came from the fact that he was for twenty-four hours on a plank in the Mediterranean Sea, suffering terribly, before he was rescued, for he says positively, "I was a night and a day in the deep." Oh, worn out, emaciated old man! surely you must be melancholy; no constitution could endure this and be cheerful. But I press my way through the prison until I come up close to where he is, and by the faint light that streams through the opening I see on his face a supernatural joy, and I bow before him, and I say "Aged man, how can you keep cheerful amid all this gloom?" His voice startles the darkness of the place as he cries out, "I am now ready to be offered, and the time of my departure is at hand."

Hark! what is that shuffling of feet in the upper dungeon? Why, Paul has an invitation to a banquet, and he is going to dine to-day with the king. Those shuffling feet are the feet of the executioners. They come, and they cry down through the hole of the dungeon: "Hurry up, old man. Come now; get yourself ready." Why, Paul was ready. He had nothing to pack up. He had no baggage to take. He had been ready a good while. I see him rising up and straightening out his limbs, and pushing back his white hair from his creviced forehead, and see him looking up through the hole in the roof of the dungeon into the face of his executioners and hear him say, "I am now ready to be offered, and the time of my departure is at hand."

Then they lift him out of the dungeon, and they start with him to the place of execution. They say: "Hurry along, old man, or you will feel the weight of our spear. Hurry along." "How far is it," says Paul, "we have to travel?" "Three miles." Three miles is a good way for an old man to travel after he has been whipped and crippled with maltreatment. But they soon get to the place of execution—Acquæ Salvia—and he is fastened to the pillar of martyrdom. It does not take any strength to tie him fast. He makes no resistance.

O, Paul! why not now strike for your life? You have a great many friends here. With that withered hand just launch the thunderbolt of the people upon those infamous soldiers. No! Paul was not going to interfere with his own coronation. He was too glad to go. I see him looking up in the face of his executioner, and as the grim official draws the sword, Paul calmly says, "I am now ready to be offered, and the time of my departure is at hand." But I put my hands over my eyes. I want not to see that last struggle. One sharp, keen stroke, and Paul does go to the banquet, and Paul does dine with the King.

What a transition it was! From the malaria of Rome to the finest climate in all the universe—the zone of eternal beauty and health. His ashes were put in the catacombs of Rome, but in one moment the air of Heaven bathed from his soul the last ache. From shipwreck, from dungeon, from the biting pain of the elmwood rods, from the sharp sword of the headsman, he goes into the most brilliant assemblage of Heaven, a King among Kings, multitudes of the saintlood rushing out and stretching forth hands of welcome, for I do really think that as on the right hand of God is Christ, so on the right hand of Christ is Paul, the second great in Heaven.

He changed Kings likewise. Before the hour of death, and up to the last moment, he was under Nero, the thick necked, the cruel eyed, the filthy lipped, the sculptured features of that man bringing down to us this very day the horrible possibilities of his nature—seated as he was amid pictured marbles of Egypt, under a roof adorned with mother-of-pearl, in a dining-room which by machinery was kept whirling day and night with most bewitching magnificence; his horses standing in stalls of solid gold, and the grounds around his palace lighted at night by its victims, who had been bedaubed with tar and pitch and then set on fire to illumine the darkness. That was Paul's King.

But the next moment he goes into the realm of Him whose reign is love, and whose courts are paved with love, and whose throne is set on pillars of love, and whose scepter is adorned with jewels of love, and whose palace is lighted with love, and whose lifetime is an eternity of love. When Paul was leaving so much on this side the pillar of martyrdom to gain so much on the other side, do you wonder at the cheerful valedictory of the text, "The time of my departure is at hand?"

Now, why cannot all the old people have the same holy glee as that aged man had? Charles I, when he was combing his head, found a gray hair, and he sent it to the Queen as a great joke; but old age is really no joke at all. For the last forty years you have been dreading that which ought to have been an exhilaration. You say you most fear the struggle at the moment the soul and body part. But millions have endured that moment, and may not we as well? They got through with it and so can we.

Besides this, all medical men agree in saying that there is probably no struggle at the last moment—not so much pain as the prick of a pin, the seeming signs of distress being altogether involuntary. But you say, "It is the uncertainty of the future." Now, child of God, do not play the infidel. After God has filled the Bible till it can hold no more with stories of the good things ahead, better not talk about uncertainties.

But you say, "I cannot bear to think of parting from friends here." If you are old, you have more friends in Heaven than here. Just take the census. Take some large sheet of paper and begin to record the names of those who have emigrated to the other shore; the companions of your school days, your early business associates, the friends of midlife, and those who more recently went away. Can it be that they have been gone so long you do not care any more about them, and you do not want their society? Oh, no. There have been days when you have felt that you could not endure another moment away from their blessed companionship. They have gone. You say you would not like to bring them back to this world of trouble, even if you had the power. It would not do to trust you. God would not give you resurrection power.

Before to-morrow morning you would be rattling at the gates of the cemetery crying to the departed: "Come back to the cradle where you slept! Come back to the hall where you used to play! Come back to the table where you used to sit!" and there would be a great burglary in Heaven. No, no. God will not trust you with resurrection power; but he compromises the matter and says, "You cannot bring them where you are, but you can go where they are." They are more lovely than ever. Were they beautiful here, they are more beautiful there.

Besides that, it is more healthy there for you than here, aged man; better climate there than these hot summers and cold winters and late springs; better hearing, better eyesight, more tonic in the air, more perfume in the bloom, more sweetness in the song. Do you not feel, aged man, sometimes as though you would like to get your arm and foot free? Do you not feel as though you would like to throw away spectacles and canes and crutches? Would you not like to feel the spring and elasticity and mirth of an eternal boyhood? When the point at which you start from this world is old age, and the point to which you go is eternal juvenescence, aged man, clap your hands at the anticipation and say, in perfect rapture of soul, "The time of my departure is at hand."

I remark again, all those ought to feel this joy of the text who have a holy curiosity to know what is beyond this earthly terminus. And who has not any curiosity about it? Paul, I suppose, had the most satisfactory view of Heaven, and he says, "It doth not yet appear what we shall be." It is like looking through a broken telescope, "Now we see through a glass darkly." Can you tell me anything about that heavenly peace? You ask me a thousand questions about it that I cannot answer. I ask you a thousand questions about it that you cannot answer. And do you wonder that Paul was so glad when martyrdom gave him a chance to go over and make discoveries in that blessed country?

I hope some day, by the grace of God, to go over and see for myself, but not now. No well man, no prospered man, I think, wants to go now. But the time will come, I think, when I shall go over. I want to see what they do there and I want to see how they do it. I do not want to be looking through the gates ajar forever. I want them to swing wide open. There are 10,000 things I want explained about you, about myself, about the government of this world, about God, about everything.

We start in a plain path of what we know and in a minute come up against a high wall of what we do not know. I wonder how it looks over there. Some body tells me it is like a paved city—paved with gold—and another man tells me it is like a fountain, and it is like a tree, and it is like a triumphal procession, and the next man I meet tells me it is all figurative. I really want to know, after the body is resurrected, what they wear and what they eat, and I have an immeasurable curiosity to know what it is, and how it is and where it is.

Columbus risked his life to find this continent, and shall we shudder to go out on a voyage of discovery which shall reveal a vaster and more brilliant country? John Franklin risked his life to find a passage between icebergs, and shall we dread to find a passage to eternal summer? Men in Switzerland travel up the heights of the Matterhorn with alpenstock and guides and rockets and ropes, and getting half way up stumble and fall down in a horrible massacre. They just wanted to say they had been on the tops of those high peaks. And shall we fear to go out for the ascent of the eternal hills which start a thousand miles beyond where stop the highest peaks of the Alps when in that ascent there is no peril?

A man doomed to die stepped on the scaffold and said in joy, "Now in ten minutes I will know the great secret." One minute after the vital functions ceased, the little child that died last night knew more than Jonathan Edwards or St. Paul himself before he died. Friends, the exit from this world, or death, if you please to call it, to the Christian is glorious explanation.

It is demonstration. It is illumination. It is sunburst. It is the opening of all the windows. It is shutting up the catechism of doubt and the unrolling of all the scrolls of positive and accurate information. Instead of standing at the foot of the ladder and looking up it is standing at the top of the ladder and looking down. It is the last mystery taken out of botany and geology and astronomy and theology.

Oh, will it not be grand to have all questions answered? The perpetually recurring interrogation point changed for the mark of exclamation. All riddles solved. Who will fear to go out on that discovery, when all the questions are to be decided which we have been discussing all our lives? Who shall not clap his hands in the anticipation of that blessed country, if it be no better than through holy curiosity, crying, "The time of my departure is at hand?"

I remark again, we ought to have the joy of the text, because, leaving this world, we move in the best society of the universe. You see a great crowd of people in some street, and you say: "Who is passing there? What general, what prince is going up there?" Well, I see a great throng in Heaven. I say: "Who is the focus of all that admiration? Who is the center of that glittering company?" It is Jesus, the champion of all worlds, the favorite of all ages.

Do you know what is the first question the soul will ask when it comes through the gate of Heaven? I think the first question will be, "Where is Jesus, the Saviour that pardoned my sin, that carried my sorrows, that fought my battles, that won my victories?" Oh, radient one! how I would like to see thee! thou of the manger, but without its humiliations; thou of the cross, but without its pangs; thou of the grave, but without its darkness.

The Bible intimates that we will talk with Jesus in Heaven just as a brother talks with a brother. Now, what will you ask Him first? I do not know. I can think what I would ask Paul first if I saw him in Heaven. I think I would like to hear him describe the storm that came upon the ship when there were 275 souls on the vessel, Paul being the only man on board cool enough to describe the storm. There is a fascination about a ship and the sea that I never shall get over, and I think I would like to hear him talk about that first.

But when I meet my Lord Jesus Christ, of what shall I first delight to hear Him speak? Now I think what it is. I shall first want to hear the tragedy of His last hours, and then Luke's account of the crucifixion, and Mark's account of the crucifixion, and John's account of the crucifixion will be nothing, while from the living lips of Christ the story shall be told of the gloom that fell, and the devils that arose, and the fact that upon His endurance depended the rescue of a race; and there was darkness in the sky, and there was darkness in the soul, and the pain became more sharp, and the burdens became more heavy, until the mob began to swim away from the dying vision of Christ, and the cursing of the mob came to His ear more faintly, and His hands were fastened to the horizontal piece of the cross, and His feet were fastened to the perpendicular piece of the cross, and His head fell forward in a swoon as He uttered the last moan and cried, "It is finished!" All Heaven will stop to listen until the story is done, and every harp will be put down, and every lip closed, and all eyes fixed on the divine narrator until the story is done, and then at the tap of the baton, the eternal orchestra will rouse up, finger on string of harp, and lips to the mouth of trumpet, there shall roll forth the oratorio of the Messiah, "Worthy is the Lamb that was slain to receive blessing and riches and honor and glory and power, world without end!"

What he endured, oh, who can tell,
To save our souls from death and hell!

When there was between Paul and that magnificent Personage only the thinness of the sharp edge of the sword of the executioner, do you wonder that he wanted to go? Oh, my Lord Jesus, let one wave of that glory roll over us! Hark! I hear the wedding bells of Heaven ringing now. The marriage of the Lamb has come and the bride hath made herself ready. And now for a little while goodby. I have no morbid feelings about the future. But if anything should happen that we never meet again in this world, let us meet where there are no partings. Our friendships have been delightful on earth, but they will be more delightful in Heaven. And now I commend you to God and the word of his grace, which is able to build us up and give us an inheritance among all them that are sanctified.

"What's the reason you never call me to practice medicine in your family?" asked an impecunious physician of a citizen. "Because, when I want a quack I can buy a duck cheaper," was the satirical reply.—Newman Independent.

TWO PRICES.

HOW THE INDIANA FARMER IS SWINDLED

Under the Republican Tariff—Extract from Senator Voorhees' Speech in the Senate, Sept. 3—American Made Agricultural Implements Sold Cheaper in Foreign Countries Than at Home.

Below is given an extract from Senator Voorhees' speech in the United States senate Sept. 3, last:

How dares the American manufacturer compel the American farmer to pay him $65 for a mower which he sells in South America for $40, or $90 for a reed-cutter which he sells in the Argentine Republic for $60? The following table discloses in brief space the increase of prices in the protected home market, where the farmer is compelled to buy, over the natural and honest prices of the same articles in foreign markets, where it has no protection and needs none:

	Foreign price.	Home price.
Advance plow	$ 9 00	$18 00
Advance plow	4 00	8 00
Hay-tedder	30 00	45 00
Mower	40 00	65 00
Horserake	17 00	25 00
Cumming feed cutter No. 3	60 00	90 00
Ann Arbor cutter, No. 2	26 00	40 00
Ann Arbor cutter, No. 1	18 00	29 00
Clipper cutter	9 50	18 00
Lever cutter	4 25	8 00
Cultivator	22 00	30 00
Sweep	60 00	90 00

The same rule of different prices for the same article, depending on its sale at home or abroad, which this list contains is to be found in the way of discounts and other trade arrangements of from 10 to 70 per cent. in favor of the foreign purchaser, and discriminating against the home consumer on nearly every species of manufacture known to American industry. I submit a partial list of utensils indispensable to the farmer which are manufactured in this country and sold abroad cheaper than he can buy them here:

Wheel hoe, cultivator, rake and plow: all-steel horseshoe and cultivator with wheel; all-steel plain cultivator with wheel; lock-lever rakes; self-dump hayracks; hay tedder; potato digger.

Plows: Two-horse, chilled nine-inch cut; same all-steel. Chilled, ten-inch cut; all-steel, ten-inch cut. Two or three-horse chilled, sr.; same all-steel. Two or three-horse, chilled, jr.; same, all-steel. Two-gang, four horses, steel.

Shovels: Cast steel, long handles, round point, No. 1 and No. 3; cast steel, D handle, round point, No. 2 and No. 3.

Shades: Cast steel, D handle, No. 2; No. 3, cast steel, long handles.

Rakes: The S. R. Nye improved twenty-two teeth and twenty-six teeth; Waldron's pattern, oiled; silver steel painted; Western Dutchman, bronzed; fine cutlery steel, full painted; all steel, full polished.

Grain scythes; Waldron's pattern; oiled; silver steel, painted; clover, oiled; clipper, bronzed and painted.

To this list may be added the statement of the senator from Missouri, which I quote:

Also table and butcher knives, scissors, spoons, forges, drills, duck and twine, electrical appliances, explosives, mills, boilers, flue cleaners, augers, wrenches, vises, blacksmiths' tools, hoisting engines, jack-screws, pails, water coolers, washtubs, keelers, milk pans, lamps, miners' tools, keys, locks, meat cutters, lathes, saws, etc., on which the discount to foreign purchasers ranges ranges from 10 to 70 per cent.

There is an article going around in the newspapers about the increase of the exportation of American flour to the island of Cuba; that it has become very much larger than heretofore, and where Spanish flour was imported there American flour has taken its place. Most certainly it has, and what follows then? Have the mills ceased to grind in old Spain? Has the wheat forgotten to grow there? Not at all. But the Spanish flour which was formerly sent to Cuba goes to the French, the Italian, and other European markets, where our flour formerly went, and supplants it, because transportation is so much shorter and so much cheaper. There is, then, a change in the direction of the exportation of flour, but there is no change due to this cause in the quantity exported, and there is not a change of one hundreth of 1 per cent. in the value of any of the commodities named in the McKinley bill as being put upon the free list as the basis for reciprocity. — From Senator Turpie's speech on the Reciprocity Humbug.

The McKinley bill is from beginning to end an exclusively party scheme, deliberately, inflexibly and irresistibly forced upon the country by a disciplined and terrorized congressional majority, at the behests of wealthy industrialists who, in consideration of this service rendered, have contributed funds and influence for carrying the elections in the interest of the party now in ascendancy, or more correctly, of certain party leaders. It will stand upon the statute books as the grossest and most corrupt exercise of legislative powers ever perpetrated in the history of the country, and as the signal monument of a point of departure at which wealth and corrupt politics joined hands in alliance for defeating public opinion in the government of the nation.—New York Commercial Bulletin (nonpartisan).

The United States department of labor has begun taking a census of the building and loan associations of the country.

ANOTHER COLOSSAL MONOPOLY.

The Direct Result of High Protective Tariff.

We learn that arrangements are in course of preparation for consolidating the great western bituminous coal properties and the railroads therewith connected into a huge monopoly, fashioned after the anthracite combination recently consummated by the Reading company. The details of the scheme and the personnel of its promotion must remain for future ascertainment; but meantime the ultimate acomplishment of the project seems to admit of little doubt.

The really serious question suggested by this fact is whether the people of the United States consider that they have any interest in it and propose to have anything to say about it? Do they suppose they have any rights affected by the scheme; and, if so, are they prepared to assert them? or do they choose to wait supinely until those rights have been put beyond the avail of protest or law?

What is coal to us? The chief source of industrial power; the propelling force of our railroads and steamships; the almost exclusive agent for converting our ores and working our metals; the source of our artificial light; the comfort of our homes; the means of preparing our food; it is, in short, the one agent that, next to the vital air, is above all others essential to the infinite ramifications of civilization.

It is a manifest purpose in the constitution of things that whatever is most indispensable to human subsistence and comfort shall be most absolutely free; and it is as essential that coal should be free to common acquisition as that the supply of air should be unrestricted. No possible affront to the common rights of humanity could match in boldness and injustice this attempt to put the prime source of human welfare under the exclusive control of a mere handful of capital owners.

Viewed in all its bearings, this scheme, and equally the Reading combination, is one of the most flagrant attempts to constitute an overwhelming tyranny of wealth ever perpetrated. If monopoly is to be quietly permitted to thus fasten its grip upon the motive power of our industries and commerce, what may not be next attempted in the way of subjecting the national liberties and the national development to the will of a petty all-controlling class?

The question this new movement puts boldly and squarely before the people is neither more nor less than this—shall our industry and commerce be subjected to the unrestricted control of an absolute monopoly over each interest? Does the public common sense need to be informed that such control would be more arbitrary and more obtrusive to the development of this great country than the most despotic form of political government could possibly be? And having rejected despotic political institutions, are we prepared to tolerate a still more destructive despotism of wealth?—New York Commercial Bulletin.

The Indianapolis Journal on Labor.

The tyranny of labor organizations over labor is far more absolute and galling than that of capital over labor. The real slavery of labor is that imposed by labor unions.—Journal, June 11, 1889.

Five dollars a week is low wages, but it is not "pauper labor" by a good deal.—Journal, June 18, 1889.

In Great Britain coal miners receive from $1.08 to $1.12 a day. The miner's lot is hard enough, but at the lowest wages ever paid or offered in the country the American miner can make a good deal more than the foreign miners work for all the time. There is no "pauper labor" in the United States. It is an insult to call any man a pauper laborer who can earn even $5 a week.—Journal, June 18, 1889.

Of the 328,000 divorces granted in the United States during the last twenty years, 316,000 were granted at the request of wives.

Farm Mortgage Indebtedness.

The Bankers' Monthly, a carefully edited and very conservative publication, gives the amount of mortgages on farms in six western states—the same having been accurately compiled—and figures out the interest on the same at 6 per cent., which certainly is a very moderate average, viz.:

	Farm Mortgages.	Interest.
Kansas	$285,000,000	$14,000,000
Indiana	645,000,000	38,700,000
Iowa	567,000,000	34,020,000
Michigan	500,000,000	30,000,000
Wisconsin	367,000,000	22,020,000
Ohio	1,127,000,000	67,620,000

The mortgages in amount aggregate $3,491,000,000, and the annual interest, at 6 per cent., $206,360,000.

This is how a New York widow got ahead of the Inman Steamship company. She owned a narrow strip of land which the company wished, and, of course, she asked an outrageous price for it. A compromise was finally reached. She offered to deed the land if the company would in return agree to give to her and her two daughters, as long as she lived, free passage upon the steamers of the line. As she was an elderly lady the company agreed to it. This was in 1889. Ever since then the lady and her daughters have lived aboard the company's steamers, and as they run vessels to nearly all the principal parts of the world she travels whenever she wishes.

A new instrument that possesses value and novelty is a speculum for examining horses' mouths. It is the invention of an Illinois man, and consists of a bit broad enough to keep the horse's mouth open and an arrangement of reflectors to determine easily the condition of the throat and mouth.

STILL GROVER.

Each Hour Adds to His Strength.

No One Dares Meet Him in the Arena.

The Fight of the Convention Will Center on the Vice-Presidency.

Plenty of Candidates in the Field, With Indiana's Favorite in the Lead.

CHICAGO, June 22—The New York delegation is clinging this morning to a last desperate hope of defeating the nomination of Grover Cleveland. They are seeking to unite the opposition to him on some new candidate and they think they will succeed. They would be willing to take Campbell, but the ex governor, remembering the fate of McKinley at Minneapolis, still refuses to allow his name to be used. Many of them would be satisfied with Boies or Morrison, but the name most frequently heard in connection with the possibility of a new combination is that of Gen Henry W Slocum, of New York. Gorman, the New Yorkers will have nothing to do with. The New York delegates are very indignant with the Maryland senator, whom they charge with having broken their combination against Cleveland two days ago, after encouraging them to believe that he would stand by them. They talk freely about Mr. Gorman and tell some of the inside history of the Gorman movement of Sunday and its relation to the Hill movement. Mr. Gorman and Mr. Brice, they say, had encouraged the Hill leaders in New York state to call the mid-winter convention.

Mr. Gorman promised that the Maryland convention should be held soon after the convention at Albany. It was part of the policy of the anti-Cleveland people to weaken the strength of Cleveland through the country by having his state instruct for Hill and by following this with an anti-Cleveland convention in Maryland, which has always been a Cleveland stronghold. Mr. Gorman, the Hill men say, broke faith in this and did not have the Maryland convention called until almost every other convention in the country had been held.

Two weeks ago Mr. Gorman met Senator Hill, Mr. Murphy and Mr. Sheehan in New York. This meeting was chronicled in the papers, but no statement was made public of what had been done. The Hill men say that the meeting was held at the instance of Mr Gorman to consider the opposition to Cleveland. Mr. Gorman urged Mr. Hill and his friends to make the fight against Cleveland at Chicago, and promised them his support. He intended at that time to remain in the east; but Mr. Hill urged him to go to Chicago and he finally consented to do so. Arriving here, he continued to confer with the Hill people, and at one of these conferences held last Sunday he authorized them to use his name in the effort to form a combination against Cleveland.

All of this, they say, they have now discovered, was for the purpose of furthering the selfish ambition of Mr. Gorman. When they laid before Mr Gorman the result of their canvass, showing that with his name they could prevent the nomination of Mr. Cleveland on the first ballot, they did not show enough strength to assure to Mr. Gorman the nomination, and he thereupon repudiated the whole arrangement and went into the Cleveland camp.

Mr. Gorman's side of the question has not been stated in full, but his friends in the Maryland delegation have given out, since the canvass of Monday, the statement that he refused to permit his name to be used and that his refusal was because he believed that it was to be put up only for the purpose of beating Mr. Cleveland. The policy of the anti-Cleveland leaders, it is announced, will be a policy of delay. They will fight everything in the convention, it is said, with the idea of deferring the first ballot until tomorrow, when they hope to have their forces in better order.

They succeeded last night in getting from the sub-committee of the committee on rules a report against the unit rule. The announcement of this fact created a sensation at a late hour last night when it came out. It filled the Cleveland men with surprise and apprehension. They realized later though that the rules of the convention are made by a simple majority and not a two-thirds majority of the convention and that whether the full committee sustained the action of the sub-committee or not, the report would be beaten in the convention. But they realized also that the fight on the unit rule might be made prolonged and bitter and not only would delay the balloting but would concentrate the anti-Cleveland forces so as to show their full strength on a poll of the convention.

If this vote should show less than two-thirds of the convention for Cleveland it would be a contradiction of the claims of Mr. Whitney and Mr. Dickinson, and would give to the opposition the confidence which it has lacked. Attorney General Hensel, of Pennsylvania, said after the meeting "they caught us napping in the sub committee and the matter went practically by default. Most of those present were Hill men. The report to the general committee is to be made at 9 o'clock this morning and we shall overthrow it."

The Illinois delegation is not at all satisfied with the adoption of the unit rule, but an attempt by the New York men to break it by offering a combination of Slocum and Morrison has not met with sufficient favor to warrant the belief that the action of the delegation will be rescinded before the first ballot is taken. If the first ballot does not nominate, the Illinois men may hold another caucus and agree to rescind their agreement to vote for Cleveland. Not only are the Illinois men restive about the unit rule, but they are displeased with the combination believed to have been made by the Cleveland managers on Gray for vice president. Illinois has two favorite sons who are candidates for the vice presidency. One of them is a very dark horse—Hon. Lambert Tree. The other—Hon. Adlai E. Stevenson has been exploded for some time as a good man for the second place on the ticket in case the presidency went to the east.

The friends of Mr. Cleveland were fearful of trouble that other delegations would make if they thought the support of Indiana was gained through a trade, and they have denied constantly that there is any agreement for the nomination of Mr Gray. It seems possible that if they have made a trade they will not be able to deliver the goods even if Mr. Cleveland is nominated. There will be several candidates for the second place and if Mr. Cleveland is nominated on the first ballot, as his friends still profess to believe that he will be, there will still be a fight over the vice presidency which will make the convention lively. Michigan will put up Judge Morse, Illinois Mr. Stevenson, and California Congressman Geary. Then Horace Boies, of Iowa, is a strong possibility, although his supporters now refuse to consider his availability for any but the first place on the ticket.

CONVENTION PROCEEDINGS.

For the first time since the democratic delegates arrived in the city the sun shone out this morning from a cloudless sky. It promised a hot day in the wigwam, but even heat was to be preferred to the uncertainty of wind and rain in the big shanty by the lake. More than one delegate bought an accident insurance ticket yesterday to provide for his family in case the threatening wind should take the top off the convention hall and scatter its walls along the lake front. More rain fell last night and the brightness of the morning did not free the convention hall from the rheumatic dampness which permeated it yesterday. It brightened the interior of the big building though and made it a more cheerful place.

The fact that many of the tickets to the hall had not been presented yesterday had become generally known, and the proposition of Mr. Collier, of Tennessee, to admit uniformed clubs to the vacant places started a report that at this morning's session the hall might be thrown open to the public. The crowd along Michigan avenue, therefore, began to assume large proportions even before the clumsy doors of the building were thrown open. At 10 o'clock there were thousands congregated in the roadway and along the sidewalks. The police with difficulty kept a passage clear for the holders of tickets. The uncertainty of their position made the un-elect curious, and the badge wearers, as they appeared, were stopped and questioned anxiously about the prospects of admission. There was a story in circulation that arrangements had been made with the Tammany leaders to admit the uniformed "braves" who are without tickets. Such stories invariably follow the distribution of tickets to a great gathering where the arbitrary disposition of all these favors is in the hands of a small body of men. The same story went out at Minneapolis. But the clique in the galleries there did not control the nomination and the leaders know that shouting is not going to change the result in Chicago. There is the customary ill feeling however, over the assignment of tickets. When the convention hour approached it was evident that while the hall might not be filled, the vacancies of yesterday would not be duplicated today.

Yesterday the work of the convention was cut and dried. The only attraction was the oratory of a doubtful temporary chairman, who proved to be a little below the Kentucky standard. Today there were rumors in the air of a possible contest between the Cleveland and the anti-Cleveland forces and it was said on the authority of the friends of Mr. Cleveland that it was even possible that nominating speeches would be made and a ballot taken before night. The audience was much more lively, therefore, this morning, and the seats in the big barn began to fill rapidly an hour before the convention time.

At 11:15 not one fifth of the delegates were in their seats but there was a good deal of private "chin-chinning" going on in the passageway. Governor Francis, of Missouri, the delegate, was earnestly talking with others among whom was the permanent chairman that is to be, William L. Wilson, of West Virginia, his intellectual face beaming with the pleasure of the anticipated fray, held quite a little informal levee. Precisely at 11:30 Temporary Chairman Owen tapped the convention to order and called upon the Rev. Alfred Henry, of the Methodist Episcopal church, of Chicago, to offer prayer. He asked that the convention be guided to choose a representative of modern progressive democracy and prayed that the party might proceed to victory not for the spoils of office.

Just as the prayer concluded the Iowa phalanx entered the hall, the big blue banner with the picture of Horace Boies borne in front of them. There were cheers from all parts of the hall and the band very inappropriately struck up "Maryland, My Maryland."

When the music ceased, the temporary chairman brought his gavel down and announced that the first business of the convention would be the report of the committee on credentials. He asked if that committee was ready to report.

Before any one could reply, Mr. Winston, of Minnesota, got the floor and in a brief speech moved that the courtesies of the platform be extended to ex-Senators James Doolittle and Lyman Trumbull. The chair declared the motion carried without putting it. The chairman again asked if the committee on credentials was ready to report. Mr. Shaw, of Maryland, from the extreme rear of the hall replied that they were not.

The chair. "At what time can the committee state that they will be ready?" Mr. Shaw. "Not before 2 o'clock."

This announcement was received with a subdued murmer of disappointment. The chairman inquired what was the next pleasure of the convention. The committee not being ready to report Mr. Dulaney, of Alaska, got the floor and presented a memorial which was referred to the committee on resolutions.

Mr. Bronson, of Kentucky, then got the floor and moved that the chair appoint a committee of two to wait on the committee on credentials and ask when they would be ready to report. The motion was agreed to and Mr. Bronson, of Kentucky, and Mr. Pollard, of Indiana, were appointed. The chair again asked the convention its pleasure. Just then some one in the gallery caught sight of Senator Mills, of Texas, and started a cry for him which was taken up on the floor and soon spread until the delegates were all on chairs and in the aisles crying the distinguished Texan's name. Tom Johnson, of Ohio, got on a chair and caught the chairman's eye. He was recognized to move that the Hon. Roger Q. Mills be invited to address the convention. The motion was carried with enthusiasm, and Mr. Johnson and Mr. Goodman, of Missouri, were appointed a committee to escort the senator to the platform. The committee was slow in finding Mr. Mills, who had fled from the hall. During the intermission an Alabama man got the floor to offer a resolution, which was referred. Then there were cries for Carlisle, and then for Palmer; and Mr. DeYoung, of Michigan, got on his chair, and moved that Mr. Palmer be invited to address the convention. The motion was carried, and Mr. DeYoung and Mr. Jackson, of Iowa, were appointed a committee of escort. This committee was more successful than the other and Mr. Palmer was brought before the convention in a few minutes. He was received with great applause. The governor, first buttoning up his coat and then unbuttoning it as he warmed up, began, after a few preliminary remarks, to appeal for harmony. On this point he said:

I think I have the right to speak to this assembly as one having experience and I come at your request. I need not urge you to patriotism, because that is instructive in the democratic heart. I need not urge you to the adoption of every expedient to secure harmony in our ranks, because there lies before us one of the most important political contests in which the democratic party has engaged for a quarter of a century. The great work of restoring constitutional liberty devolves upon the democratic party. They would not let personal interests divide them. There should be no sulkers in the camp. The men present here are all patriotic men. They could not easily make a mistake. They must get a firm, unswerving democrat and put the flag in his hand. As sure as the republican party was triumphant there would be a force bill such as the ingenuity of John Davenport and the devil might suggest. Those republicans at Minneapolis had declared themselves for McKinleyism. The country was to be fettered. The farmers must toil for the trusts and the monopolies, and Illinois would rally to the banner. I expect Illinois to elect its state ticket, and its electoral ticket as well. We don't expect to burn Chicago up, but we'll make it amazing red.

As the applause which greeted the close of the veteran's speech died away, Mr. Chapman, of Ohio, moved that John R. Fellows, of New York, be invited to address the convention. This proposition was received with applause and some demonstration of dissent. The chair declared the motion carried, and appointed Mr. Chapman a committee to escort Mr. Fellows to the platform.

Mr. Chapman went round to Mr. Fellow's place and, leaning over Governor Flower and Lieutenant Governor Sheehan, talked earnestly with the distinguished Tammanyite, but Mr. Fellows shook his head. There still were cries of "Fellows." Finally Mr. Fellows, standing on his chair, from his place in the center of the hall and speaking with his characteristic clearness of tone, said:

I am a delegate to this convention and at the proper time when it shall be appropriate for delegates to express their opinions, I may ask the opportunity to say something to the convention. I am a democrat, and as I recognize that there are a great number of distinguished gentlemen on this floor whose names are well known to the democracy not wearing the badge of a delegate, it would be manifestly improper for one occupying that position now to claim your attention.

Mr. Fellows then resumed his seat and was loudly cheered. The chairman announced that the committee on credentials was ready to report, and Mr. Lamb, of Indiana, took the platform, and in a clear, loud voice read the report. There was no objection to it, and it was adopted. Just as the vote was taken the rain began to fall and the canvass cover was lowered about the ventilator opening above making the hall so dark that there were cries for light, and much confusion prevailed. The chairman rapped for order, and announced that the committee on permanent organization was ready to report. The report was presented by Mr. Fordyce, of Arkansas, and read by one of the clerks of the committee. It named Hon. W. L. Wilson, of West Virginia, for permanent chairman, and continued the other officers of the temporary organization.

Before Mr Wilson began his speech the storm had ceased and the hall had brightened, but as a provision against the coming of another storm the electric lights were turned on. When he concluded his speech the delegates, rising to their feet, waved their hats as they cheered again and again.

Martin L. Clardy, of Missouri, was recognized to present a resolution thanking the temporary chairman. It was adopted.

Mr. English, of Indiana, chairman of the committee on rules and order of business, then took the platform and read the committee's report as follows:

As chairman of the committee on rules and order of business, I have been instructed by a majority of the committee to submit the following report:

We recommend that the following order of business shall be observed in this convention: First—Report of committee on credentials; second, report of the committee on organization; third, report of the committee on resolutions and platform; fourth, report of the committee on nominating a president of the United States; fifth, report of the committee on nominating a vice president of the United States. Your committee further commends that the rules of the last national democratic convention shall be adopted for the government of this convention.

The announcement of Mr. Wilson's name was met with loud applause. The report was adopted without dissent. The band struck up a pot pourri of popular and national airs. "Yankee Doodle" was greeted with applause, but "Dixie" brought down the house. When the music ceased, Mr. Dickinson, of Michigan, moved that a committee of five be appointed to notify Mr Wilson of his appointment as permanent chairman. The motion was carried. The committee was nearly five minutes getting together, and the band was playing "Ta-ra-ra-boom-de-ay" when the escort committee and the permanent chairman walked up the south aisle and across the convention hall to the platform. Temporary Chairman Owens shook hands with Mr. Wilson and stepped to the front of the platform and presented Mr. Wilson. As Mr. Wilson came forward he was greeted with a storm of applause. He wore his blue delegate badge on the lapel of his coat, under which was a prominent white vest. Mr. Wilson looked calmly over the convention during a minute's silence and then began:

Mr Wilson thanked the convention for the honor conferred upon him, and then proceeded to discuss the force bill issue. He said:

Republican success in this campaign means that the people are to be stripped of their franchise through force bills in order that they may be stripped of their substance through tariff bills. Free government is self government. There is no self government where the people do not control their own elections and levy their own taxes. When either of these rights is taken away or diminished a breach is made, not in the outer defenses, but in the citidel of our freedom. For years we have been struggling to recover the lost right of taxing ourselves and now we are threatened with the loss of the greater right of governing ourselves. The loss of the one follows in necessary succession the loss of the other. Governor McKinley declared that the democratic party believed in taxing our selves. I am afraid gentlemen that we must admit this charge. What right or excuse have we for taxing any one else? We can throw the support of our government on other people only by beggary or by force. If we use the one we are a pauper nation; if we use the other we are a pirate nation. The democratic party does not intend that we should be either. No more does it intend that they should falsely call it taxing other people to transfer the expenses of government from the possessions of those who own the property of the country to the bellies and backs of those who do the work of the country. It believes that frugality is the essential virtue of free government. It intends to limit taxation to public needs and to levy taxes by the plain rule of justice and equality. What is reciprocity? It is not reciprocity at all. It is retaliation, and worst of all, retaliation on our own people. It punishes American citizens for the necessities or follies of other people. And now we are told that reciprocity is to be the republican battle cry. We are regaled with pictures of Benjamin Harrison clad in armor and going forth to battle for reciprocity on a plumed steed. Simple Simon fishing for what's in his mother's rain barrel in great triumph catching an occasional wiggle-waggle, is the true idealistic picture of reciprocity of the McKinley type."

Wilson called the attention of the convention to the duties before it, and concluded by declaring that, whoever the nominee might be, he would strike down the beast of sectionalism and the moloch of monopoly and restore once again a government of the people, by the people, and for the people.

To the surprise of the convention no minority report was presented, and on motion the majority report presented by Mr. English was adopted without objection. The chairman asked if the committee on resolutions was ready to report. There was no reply, and in the interval that followed the band struck up a lively air.

At the conclusion of this performance Mr. Phelps, of Missouri, was recognized to present a zinc gavel. He said:

MR. CHAIRMAN—In behalf of the zinc producers and miners of Missouri, I present to you this gavel, not made of tin, not stolen from a Nebraska homestead, but mined and made in Jasper county, Mo., and bearing the inscription, "We need no protection," as a protest against the mockery of legislation, which imposes a useless tariff of 30 per cent upon the metal as a pretext for taxing the lamp, pick, shirt and blanket of the miner more than 40 per cent. The zinc fields like the American wheat fields are the most productive in the world. The same market which fixes the price of the farmer's wheat regulates the price of miners' zinc, and we have long since learned what the farmer is rapidly learning, that the market in which he sells the product of his labor is the only one in which he should purchase the implements of his avocation and the necessities of his household, and he is ready to do his part in giving the electoral vote of Missouri to the nominee of the convention by 10,000 majority.

The chairman accepting the gavel repeated in substance the remarks of Mr. Phelps, which had been almost inaudible to the convention. The chairman of the committee on resolutions not being in his seat the chairman ordered the clerk to ask the delegations to send to the desk the names of members of the national committee on notification. There was a long interval while the names were being sent up. Then some one moved that Mr. Carlisle be asked to address the convention. This was adopted and the chair appointed Mr. Walker, of Missouri, and Mr. Porter, of Tennessee, to escort the Kentuckian to the platform. The committee seemed unable to find Mr. Carlisle and the galleries continued to cry "Carlisle" spasmodically while the convention remained inactive.

Then there were cries for "Clardy," but as no one responded to any of the calls the chairman started the band on an operatic selection. While the band was playing the electric lights went out. When the music stopped the Carlisle committee reported that Mr. Carlisle was not in the convention, and on motion of Mr. Fordyce, of Arkansas, ex-Governor Campbell was invited to address the convention. The chairman, amid cheers, appointed another escort committee, and the band played "The Campbells Are Coming."

Mr. Campbell responded, being led to the platform by Reading Clerk Bell and then taking a chair by Mr. Fordyce. The chairman introducing him said that "the Campbell was the favorite democratic animal." Governor Campbell commenced in an ordinary tone of voice. There were cries of "louder," to which he replied:

I would be glad to talk louder, but there are two many democrats here for any one man to talk to. I am afraid that this audience, having no better amusement, wishes, as the chairman insinuates, to trot out all the democratic menagerie. I have been trotted out on all kinds of occasions, and certainly I am complimented by your invitation and will not abuse your kindness by inflicting on you a speech. If I did I could only expect to fail by contrast with the magnificent, the matchless oration delivered this day by your chairman. So I simply ask you when November rolls around to "keep an eye on Ohio."

Governor Campbell then retired, but the audience for some time afterwards called for more, to which request, however, he declined to respond. The band struck up again. Then an invitation was extended by motion for Attorney General Hensel, of Pennsylvania, to address the convention. Mr. Hensel, however, did not respond. Mr. Davis, of Ohio, got the floor to move the appointment of a committee of two to wait on the committee of reslutions and say when they would report, but the confusion in the galleries was so great that the chair had to ask the official stenographer what Mr. Davis had said. The motion was adopted and Mr Davis and Mr. Hensel were made the visiting committee. Mr Ochs, of Tennessee, got on a chair and moved that ex-Governor Bob Taylor, of Tennessee, be asked to address the convention. This seemed to meet the approval of the galleries but the chairman announced that Governor Taylor, who was on the platform, was not well enough to speak. Then Mr. Henry, of Mississippi, moved that Henry Watterson be asked to address the convention "in his own matchless manner." The motion was adopted, but Mr. Watterson was too coy, and the galleries divided on cries for Taylor and other favorites until the chairman again started the band.

In the tedious interlude delegates blocked up the passage ways and were requested to resume their seats. Renewed requests for Governor Taylor were made by a renewed explanation that Mr Taylor was not well enough. Mr. Williams, of Mississippi, moved that Burke Cochrane, of New York be invited to address the convention. Mr Cockran declining the invitation to take the platform, said he expected to have business to lay before the convention a little latter. In the meantime he suggested that delegates occupy the time by taking in substantial refreshments. The intellectual refreshment they had received from their chairman could not be excelled by any oratory they would hear. Don M Dickinson, sitting just across the aisle from Mr. Fellows, moved that the convention take a recess to 5 o'clock. There were cries of "no" from the galleries, and when the chairman put the motion the galleries voted "no" with great vigor, but the chairman declared the motion carried and at 1:15 the convention took a recess until 5 o'clock.

TAMMANY WEAKENING.

Chairman Edward Murphy confirmed the statement that the test vote would be made on the question of adopting the unit rule in the convention. He and Mr Croker were about the New York headquarters early. They are New York headquarters now—not Tammany headquarters. The Tammany leaders have found that the prejudice against Tammany in some parts of the country is working against them with the delegates and they no longer claim the honor of being the head of the New York delegation. In fact they have been impressing upon the delegates for two days now the fact that the Tammany vote in the New York delegation is very small and that the anti-Cleveland protest represent rather the sentiment of the rest of the state than New York city. Croker received this morning a telegram which he exhibited to the visitors to the New York headquarters. It was from W W Kirby, of Indiana, and it said that the good people of Indiana would refuse to vote for Mr. Cleveland because of his "brutal and inhuman treatment" of the Hendrick's family after the death of the vice president. Mr Murphy was in quite a cheerful mood this morning. He denied the story which had been scattered broad cast that General Slocum will be the compromise candidate. He says that General Slocum would not permit the use of his name. Mr. Murphy said that he understood that the committee on rules would present a resolution to abolish the unit rule and he believed, though this determination was open to change that the anti-Cleveland men would make their test vote on that question. He reiterated his statement that Hill was the candidate of the New York delegates, and that they would stand by him. But they were not working at present for the nomination of Mr Hill. They were now trying to prevent the nomination of Mr. Cleveland on the first or any subsequent ballot. Mr Murphy said that there was nothing in the published story that New York has talked about bolting the convention in the event of the nomination of Cleveland.

Secretary Beardsley, of the state committee, said this morning that the test vote would show that at least 320 of the delegates were against the nomination of Mr. Cleveland and the opposition had pledges from as many as sixty others that after the first ballot, if Mr. Cleveland did not receive the nomination, they would throw their votes to some other candidate. No attempt has been made at the concentration of opposition, he said. The question would be taken up when they had assured the democratic party against the calamity of the nomination of Mr. Cleveland.

GOT DRUNK AGAIN!

John L. Sullivan Has a Big Time at Boston.

BOSTON, June 22. John L. Sullivan broke through the traces of temperance on Monday. About 4 o'clock in the afternoon he arrived at the Tremont house and at once became ruler of everything in sight. He had a big roll of money which he won on the races, and he came home to celebrate his good luck. His actions certainly indicated a long distance from the milestones on the road to sobriety. He sang songs, recited short passages from "Honest Hearts," and wound up by challenging the earth. "Give me just one swipe at the man in the moon," he shouted, "and I'll bet you a thousand there won't be any moon left—see?" Friends finally succeeded in taking the champion away in a cab.

BLOWN TO ATOMS.

Several Men Killed by an Explosion.

LACHUTE, Quebec, June 22.—Three men were blown to atoms and one boy was seriously injured yesterday at the Brownsburg cartridge factory by an explosion, which occurred in a building set apart from the factory for the purpose of loading detonators. The building was blown to atoms. Richard Burke was blown through the door and was the only one who got out of the building alive. Those killed are: Jas. Kearnes, of Montreal: Wm. Gunn, of North Maisonneuve; John Curren, foreman. The explosion was distinctly heard at this place, which is four miles from the scene of the accident.

SENATOR GORMAN ILL.

Neuralgia Attacks Him and Confines Him to His Room.

CHICAGO, June 22.—Senator Gorman of Maryland, as the result of yesterday's storm, was attacked last night by his enemy, neuralgia, and was confined to his room. His indisposition gave rise to many rumors, some of them quite sensational. To a reporter of the United Press, who called on him this morning, the senator said that he was much better, and under the influence of the bright, cheering weather which prevails today would soon be entirely recovered.

AT GRAY GABLES

Cleveland is Listening to the Telegraph from Chicago.

BUZZARD'S BAY, MASS., June 22.—Grover Cleveland and his charming little family are enjoying life at their beautiful home, Gray Gables. The ticking of the telegraph is to be heard at Gray Gables this week, for both companies have offered to run a wire from the railway and to install an operator in the house, but otherwise the distinguished occupant of the mansion will remain undisturbed by the clamor of political factions.

RICE AND OLD SHOES

Follow Bridal Couples as They Depart Upon Their Wedding Journeys—Several Marriages.

James Edward Breen, the popular passenger conductor on the Fort Wayne road, and Miss Catherine Leighton, of Warsaw, Ind., were married this morning at 9 o'clock, at Warsaw, Rev. Father Eldering of Columbia City, performing the ceremony. James Houlihan and his sister, Miss Lizzie, of this city, attended the bride and groom, and Miss Kate Sweeney and Miss Bertha Barnard, also of this place, assisted the choir. Mr. Breen makes his home in Fort Wayne, and his charming bride has numerous friends here, which accounts for the large number that went up to the city of lakes to attend the nuptials and participate in the wedding festivities. About 200 invitations have been issued. Mr. Breen and bride go east on their wedding trip, visiting Washington, Philadelphia, Harrisburg, New York, Baltimore, and other points.

At high noon today, at the home of the bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs John L. Race, 51 East Third street, occurred the marriage of their daughter, Miss Gertrude E. Rose, to Mr George Piepenbrink, the well known tobacconist. The ceremony, which was a pretty one, was performed by Rev. A. K. Zartman, the pastor of the Grace church, Mrs. Zartman playing the wedding march as the bridal party entered the parlors. Mr and Mrs Piepenbrink left for Chicago, Freeport, Illinois, and Millwaukee on their wedding tour.

Last evening at the residence of Conductor Sylvester McMahon and wife, 321 Broadway, occurred a brilliant home wedding by which their pretty and amiable daughter, Miss Dora, was given in marriage to Mr. John Lee, the popular Nickel Plate fireman. As the contracting parties entered the parlor and stood beneath a floral arch, the strains of Mendellshon's wedding march rendered by Mrs Lem Bartholomew, of Chicago, lent an impressive air to the occasion. The Rev. S. A. Northrop, pastor of the Baptist Tabernacle, performed the ceremony. The bride was attired in cream colored crepe with pearl ornaments and with her natural charms added looked lovely. The groom wore the conventional black. When the ceremony was over and congratulations were offered supper was announced and it was a sumptuous feast, which the numerous guests thoroughly enjoyed. The guests from abroad were: Mrs. Fulton, grandmother of the groom, and Miss Edith Fulton, of Pittsburg; Mrs. Gilbert McMahon, of Grand Rapids; Mrs. R. N. Youngblood and Mrs Lem Bartholomew, of Chicago, and Mr. and Mrs Harry Gilbert, of St. Louis.

This evening, at the home of the bride's mother, 171 Creighton avenue, will occur the marriage of Edgar L. Bell and Lydia C. Tons. The ceremony will be performed by Rev. A. K. Zartman.

This morning, at the office of Justice C. A. Hays, occurred the marriage of Franklin D. Payne and Miss Ann Renk. The bride is a Mexican. Justice Hays performed the ceremony, and after this was over Capt. Harry Dickman united with others in bestowing his best wishes upon the couple.

During the last two days the following marriage licences have been issued at the county clerk's office: Charles A. Barnes and Louisa Reitter, Edgar L. Bell and Lydia C. Tons, Jacob Strohn and Magdalena Tesher, Wilbert A. Brumfield and Elizabeth J. McNutt, William Shiler and Amalie Schurst, Alpheus L. Sites and Cora Clymer, Franklin D. Payne and Ann Renk, Alex. Huguenard and Olive Pettit, John S. Lee and Dora McMahon, Geo. Piepenbrink and Emily G. Race, Edmund W. Keller and Mary Henry.

LIGHTNING STRUCK

Two Kegs of Powder and Fifty People are Injured.

SOMERSET, June 22.—Of the fifty people injured when lightning struck the store of W. H. Ryan, at Parmleyville, twenty-four are in a serious condition and three of them, W. H. Ryan, Thomas Powell and Mr. Young cannot recover. Many of the injured will have to have limbs amputated as they are so mangled that it will be impossible to save them. The large crowd present had collected at the post office in the store to receive the evening mail when the lightning struck the two kegs of powder in the store. It exploded, throwing a heavy iron safe through the roof. Not one of the persons in the store escaped serious injury.

COLORED MEN MEET

And Renounce Their Allegiance to the Republican Party.

CHICAGO, June 22.—The Colored men's national democratic convention met this morning at 11 o'clock. The meeting was called to order by the national secretary, and William Johnson, of Albany, was selected as chairman and briefly addressed the convention, declaring the republican party had outlived its usefulness and the best interests of the colored race called upon them to look about for a safe and more sure anchorage.

UNDER her accustomed diet of dogs' flesh the plucky young woman in Indiana, encouraged by her physicians and friends, has managed thus far to keep pup wonderfully.

It is a little odd that "an artificial leg only lasts on an average seven years," just the period that scientists say all the particles of the human body change and are renewed.

WHITE AND GOLD.

White for Purity and Gold for Richness of Learning—Graduates of Westminster.

Nine young ladies, dressed in purest of white, received diplomas graduating them from Westminster Seminary, last evening at the First Presbyterian church. The auditorium was beautifully decorated, the class colors, white and gold, predominating, and the audience was large and fashionable. The following program was presented:

Music	Haydn Quartet
Invocation	Rev. J. S. Abaille
Music	Haydn Quartet
Address	Rev. T. E. Barr, of Kalamazoo
Music	Haydn Quartet
Presentation of the class	Miss Carrie Sharp
Presentation of Diplomas	D. W. Moffat, D. D.
Class Song
Vale	Mrs D. B. Wells
Benediction	Rev. Dr. Moffat

Rev Barr, the speaker of the evening, was introduced by Dr. Moffat, who took occasion to compliment Westminster upon the success and popularity it has attained and furthermore said that the state is to be congratulated on the possession of such an institution of learning. Our neighbors in Ohio and Illinois are learning that there is here a place to which they can send their daughters to receive a thorough, practical, Christian education. Every good citizen of this city feels a pride in Westminster and it is his privilege as it is his duty to work for its upbuilding. He then introduced Dr. Hale, who announced as his theme, "The Ethics of Culture." In an eloquent manner he defined this most appropriate subject, declaring that culture implies a development of all that is in us, mind, heart and soul, our social and our spiritual nature. It is a preparation which fits us as we go out into the world to classify that which we may there learn and fill in each fact into its proper place in the general outline. It must also bring our being and character into relation with the age in which we live. Isolated intellectualism is not culture.

We want men and women who are whole in heart, conscience and vital[illegible] ing energy and prepared to align the full force of their powers upon the age and the community in which they live.

And finally he said that true culture must be religious. The cross of Christ is the great center from which all lines of highest development proceed, conformity to its spirit measures the degree to which you may reach out, influence, and lift up with wholesome influence those about you.

The presentation of the class by Miss Sharp was accompanied by words [illegible] pride for the young [illegible] closing with these words: "We send them out from us knowing that they have learned the true nobility of character."

Rev. Dr. Moffat presented the diplomas to the following young ladies: Marie Louise Boltz, Emma Marchand Buchman, Mary Ellinor Clugston, Harriet Walterman Fowler, Ruby Gertrude Gilbert, Blanche Wright Laubach, [illegible]tha Lilley Longacre, Mary Emma [illegible]gomery, Maximillia Nickey.

The class song, the words [illegible] Julia H. Johnson, of Peori[illegible] the music by Miss Josephi[illegible] this city, was effectively sung [illegible] verse was as follows:

Ring soft and low, sweet memory-bells,
With tuneful chime salute the air;
Ring loud and clear, O bugle-note,

CHAUNCEY DEPEW.

What He Would Give Up Should He Enter the Cabinet.

NEW YORK, June 22.—Vice-President Walter Webb, of the New York Central railroad, now on a vacation in Europe, has been summoned home by cable. He sails from Liverpool tomorrow. This looks as if Mr. Depew is to be the next secretary of state and Mr. Webb the next president of the New York Central road. It is understood that the president has not formally tendered to Mr. Depew the portfolio of state, but is ready to do so when Mr. Depew signifies absolutely his readiness to accept.

It is probable that no man ever resigned so many offices to accept a new one as Mr. Depew will resign if he enters President Harrison's cabinet. He is now either president or director in seventeen of the largest companies in the country and he will have to resign from every one of them to accept the single office of secretary of state.

GUESTS at Southern California hotels were startled by an earthquake the other night. They found it charged in their bills as a special attraction.

THE umbrella trust has already taken most of the manufacturers under cover. Those still remaining will be glad to get in out of the rain before long.

Our summer commenced yesterday.

FORT WAYNE is proud of her soldier boys.

POLITICAL conventions will soon be over.

CUPID is making the month of June a merry one.

LIGHTNING played great freaks in this city yesterday.

THE presidential campaign this year will be a hot one.

NOW who will the prohibition and people's parties nominate for president?

THESE are the days when newspaper reporters sigh for news and find it not.

PRESIDENT HARRISON has engaged a cottage at Loon Lake, in the Adirondacks, for the summer.

STORMS and political conventions go together to make the month of June this year one of interest.

IT LOOKS as if Chauncey M. Depew would step into Blaine's shoes as a member of Harrison's cabinet.

GROVER CLEVELAND retains the confidence of the people of this nation. His career as president was an honored one.

THE local interest in the Chicago convention seems to be almost as great as it was when the Minneapolis convention was in session.

HOW will you vote in regard to the new shops of the Mahoning railroad, which it is proposed to build in this city? Think over the matter.

THE republican state convention meets in this city next week. Our citizens should lay aside politics and entertain the delegates in a hospitable manner.

BETWEEN political conventions, floods, cyclones and fires the booming towns of the great west are getting plenty of free advertising this year, says the New York Herald.

REV. THOS E. BARR is receiving many compliments for his masterly address delivered last evening at the commencement exercises at the Westminster seminary.

WESTMINSTER seminary, under the directorship of Mrs. D B Wells and Miss C. B. Sharp, is pushing to the front as an educational institution. It is doing a grand work for the cause of education.

IT IS no longer doubtful that Mr. Blaine was forced out of the cabinet by the deliberate purpose of the president and his supporters, and his resignation was not an act of political ambition upon Mr Blaine's part, but a necessary act of self-respect.

SENATOR HALE had a talk with ex-Secretary Blaine recently. The senator has told some of his friends that Mr Blaine said that he had no thought of going to the senate. He assured Mr. Hale that he had no idea of taking any place in public life. A friend of Senator Hale's said that if Mr Blaine would accept an election, Mr Hale would withdraw in his favor.

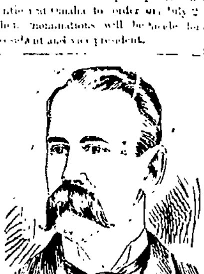

ONE of the anomalies of politics is the appearance of delegates from the territories in the democratic convention. The territories appoint no presidential electors and their inhabitants have nothing to do, directly or indirectly, with the choice of president, and yet they are allowed a voice in the selection of candidates. Arizona, New Mexico, Oklahoma, Utah and the District of Columbia will have each two votes in the convention at Chicago as they had at Minneapolis.

AT THE democratic national convention yesterday Mr Cable of Illinois offered a resolution of sympathy to James G. Blaine. It read, that this convention tenders its profound sympathy to that distinguished American, James G. Blaine in the many afflictions which have befallen him. The reading of the name of Mr Blaine was the signal for an outburst of greater enthusiasm than the convention had known before. The resolution was adopted without dissent. Mr Swett of Maine got the floor and briefly thanked the convention on behalf of the Maine delegation.

TWO NATIONAL CONVENTIONS.

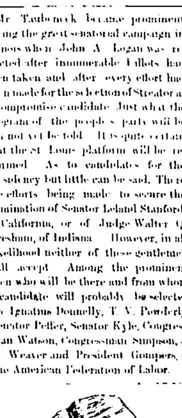

The People's Party and the Prohibition Party Will Hold Them.

Chairman H. E. Taubeneck, of Illinois will call the People's party convention at Omaha to order on July 2 when nominations will be made for president and vice president.

H. E. TAUBENECK.

Mr Taubeneck became prominent during the great senatorial campaign in Illinois when John A. Logan was reelected after innumerable ballots had been taken and after every effort had been made for the selection of Streator as a compromise candidate. Just what the program of the people's party will be can not yet be told. It is quite certain that the St. Louis platform will be reaffirmed. As to candidates for the presidency but little can be said. There are efforts being made to secure the nomination of Senator Leland Stanford, of California, or of Judge Walter Q. Gresham, of Indiana. However, in all likelihood neither of these gentlemen will accept. Among the prominent men who will be there and from whom a candidate will probably be selected are Ignatius Donnelly, T. V. Powderly, Senator Peffer, Senator Kyle, Congressman Watson, Congressman Simpson, J. B. Weaver and President Gompers, of the American Federation of Labor.

SAMUEL DICKIE.

Chairman Samuel Dickie will call the Prohibition convention to order in exposition hall at Cincinnati on June 29. On that or the following day the party will place in nomination candidates for President and Vice President, and if the assertion of the leaders are to be credited, there will be no coalition with the Peoples party. Among the men mentioned for President are Walter B. Hill, of Georgia, W. J. Demorest, of New York, John Bidwell, of California, J. B. Hobbs, of Chicago, and H. Clay Bascom, of New York. Among the vice presidential candidates are Sam Small, of Georgia, George W. Bain, of Kentucky, A. A. Stephens, of Pennsylvania and A. G. Wolfenbarger, of Nebraska. There was for a time a movement on foot to nominate John P. St John, but a letter of declination from that gentleman changed the entire program. The hall in which the nominations will be made is on the site of the building where Colonel Ingersol first nominated Blaine and in the very building where a year or more since the People's party was organized.

HOW IT LOOKS.

Who Will be Nominated for Governor at the Republican Convention?

As the date for the republican state convention draws near, says the Indianapolis News, it becomes more evident that there will be an acrimonious contest over the nomination of a candidate for governor. The friends of Governor Chase are now fully aware that they will have to resist the opposition of the machinery which has set about to defeat the governor's nomination on the double ground that he is a poor man and will, if nominated, have the opposition of the railroad employes in the state. The governor and his friends are also aware that the state organ of the party, which, they say, sets its sails to suit the chairman of the state committee, is opposed to his nomination. The character of the fight that has been made on the governor, his supporters say, is enough to make his friends indignant, and to make them all the more active and vigilant.

Within the last day or two the Chase opposition has begun to turn to Shockney, and some of the local politicians think that the state senator from Randolph will be the lucky man in the convention. They say the important thing in Shockney's favor is his good standing with the railroad men and the laboring people generally. The railroad men have indorsed his candidacy, and will, it is said, go to Fort Wayne in large numbers in his behalf.

It is generally understood that, while neither Huston, Fairbanks nor Mounts will be announced as a candidate between now and the day of the convention, each will be presented to the convention by the anti-Chase faction with the view of drawing away as much as possible of the governor's support. Huston has gone east to attend a meeting of the national committee, and will probably not get back in time for the convention. The newspaper reports from Connersville credit him as saying on the eve of his departure that he was not a candidate, but that if the convention should see fit to nominate him he would not decline.

A BIG ATTENDANCE

Anticipated at the Republican Convention in This City.

[Indianapolis Journal.]

The Evansville republicans will run a special train through to Fort Wayne, arriving Monday morning. The New Albany republicans will also run a special train. The low rates are favorable to a large attendance from the southern part of the state in spite of the distance. Equally favorable rates are now anticipated from all parts of the state. It is not thought that the wheat harvest, which has already begun in southern Indiana, will interfere with attendance. Delegates have been impressed with the idea that their acceptance of the trust as a delegate requires them to discharge the responsibility. They have also been impressed with the duty resting upon them to nominate a ticket which shall have a winning quality.

Chairman Gowdy and Secretary Millikan will go to Fort Wayne next Saturday, and will remain until Thursday. The headquarters in the Denison will be closed in the interim.

BASE BALL.

Omaha and Fort Wayne at League Park—Diamond Dust.

The storm of yesterday prevented the Fort Wayne-Kansas City game. The latter club left last night for Indianapolis, while in their place came the Omaha team which will play four games in this city, commencing this afternoon, providing the weather permits.

The probability of the new organization as outlined in the Indianapolis papers of yesterday, and used by local papers last evening, is a thing not for a moment to be entertained, so say those in authority to speak. This will be pleasing news to the lovers of the game in this city.

Yesterday's games:

CALLED UP HIGHER.

The New Cardinal and the New Bishop of Brooklyn.

Two important promotions have just been announced in the Roman Catholic church in the United States. Archbishop Ireland is to be made a cardinal, while Mgr. Charles E. McDonnell, private secretary to Archbishop Corrigan, and chancellor of the New York archdiocese, has been appointed bishop of Brooklyn.

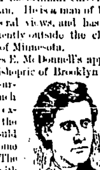

CARDINAL IRELAND.

Archbishop Ireland's career has been a brilliant one. He was born in Burnchurch, Kilkenny county, Ireland in 1838. In 1849 his parents emigrated and settled in St. Paul. At school young Ireland was noted as a particularly bright boy. Bishop Cretin sent him to Meximeux, France, where he subsequently graduated from the Grand Seminary of Hyeres, and returning to St. Paul in 1861 was ordained a priest in December of that year. Shortly afterward he went south as chaplain of the Fifth Minnesota regiment, but failing health compelling his return to St. Paul, he was appointed rector of the cathedral.

The young priest was instrumental in founding many prosperous Catholic colonies in Minnesota. He was an indefatigable worker, and his labors were rewarded in 1875, when Pope Pius IX appointed him titular bishop of Maronea and vicar apostolic of Nebraska. At the urgent solicitation of Bishop Grace, of St. Paul, who was averse to losing the services of so valuable a man, the pope appointed the new bishop the coadjutor of Bishop Grace. In June, 1888, at the papal consistory held in Rome, he was preconized archbishop and his former diocese erected into an archdiocese. His selection as cardinal recently is a fit rounding off of the brilliant career of a remarkable man. He is a man of broad mind and liberal views, and has been honored frequently outside the church by the people of Minnesota.

Mgr. Charles E. McDonnell's appointment to the bishopric of Brooklyn came as a great surprise, inasmuch as it was not expected that the selection would be made for some weeks yet. The unanimity with which he was chosen is a great tribute to his worth and attainments, as well as an indorsement of the course of Archbishop Corrigan in the diocese of New York, who highly recommended the new bishop.

BISHOP M'DONNELL.

Bishop McDonnell, who is but thirty-eight years old, will be the youngest member of the American Catholic hierarchy. He was born of humble parents in the Seventh ward of the city of New York. He received his preliminary education in Brooklyn, and afterward became a student at the De La Salle institute and St. Francis Xavier's college, New York.

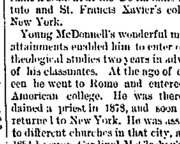

Young McDonnell's wonderful mental attainments enabled him to enter on his theological studies two years in advance of his classmates. At the age of eighteen he went to Rome and entered the American college. He was there ordained a priest in 1878, and soon after returned to New York. He was assigned to different churches in that city, and in 1881 became Cardinal McCloskey's private secretary. On the death of that prelate he filled a similar position for Archbishop Corrigan, and was afterward made chancellor of the archbishopric of New York. Bishop McDonnell's ordination will occur within a couple of months.

HOW THEY RAISED THE MONEY.

The Manner in Which Otsego's Library Promoters "Got There."

Otsego was never suspected of being among the most enterprising towns of Michigan, but its talented women have lately given it national fame. It has about 2,000 people, two big paper mills and a chair factory, and according to one vexed citizen it also has "more rich men who do nothing for the place than any other two thousand town in the nation." However, that is a common complaint with those who have more enterprise than money.

Early last year forty Otsego ladies organized into the Ladies' Library association, raised money in all the ways known to the sex, such as socials, fairs, dances, readings, etc., and built a very pretty structure at a cost of $2,000. They were but forty dollars in debt, and two young ladies started out to raise the amount. When they called on Mr. N. W. Mills, whose wife is president of the association, he jocularly offered five cents each for kisses and was promptly taken up. Then Mr. Burdeen, owner of one of the paper mills, raised the offer to fifty cents, and thus contributed somewhat.

The ladies declared that this would do for a joke, but a little of that sort of thing was quite enough. They resolved that each of the forty should raise a dollar in some novel way, but not by kissing. The plan was carried out and the reports made at the meeting in the town hall created no end of fun. The little city had a jubilee over it. Miss Maggie Smith bandaged the arm of a law student who had been badly cut and charged him a dollar. Her treatment was correct and the surgery a success.

Mrs. N. W. Mills took a step ladder and washed store windows at the Chicago price till she had earned a dollar. Mrs. P. W. Travis and Mrs. H. L. Miller ran a hand organ, the collections ranging from a penny up to ten cents. The local reporter adds that the organ was "of the Annie Rooney vintage." Miss Hattie Mitchell earned a dollar splitting wood. Mrs. George Easton blacked boots. One sold doughnuts from house to house, another sewed on buttons for boarders at the hotel, and last of all Miss Cregan sold a spring poem to the editor. So the money was raised, the fun was all of a good sort and now donations of books to the library are in order.

WAS A HARD DRINKER.

He Attempts Robbery and Then Kills Himself.

GUILFORD, Conn., June 22.—Alfred Watts walked into the house of Miss Lydia Chittenden yesterday in broad daylight and demanded her money. Miss Chittenden is sixty five years old and lives alone. She told Watts she had no money. He thereupon knocked her down and tried to shoot her, but his revolver missed fire. The woman's screams aroused the neighbors, who rushed after Watts. When he saw his pursuers overtaking him he threatened to shoot and they returned to town. He was again located and pursued later in the day, and when about to be overtaken he turned the weapon which he carried upon himself and inflicted wounds which caused his death. Watts was well known in town, having lived here eleven years. He was always a hard drinker.

Criminal in Three Counties.

VALPARAISO, Ind., June 22.—Allan Barnard, a boy, of Chicago, hired a horse and buggy last Thursday from a liveryman at Hobart, Lake county, to go to Wheeler. Instead, he passed Wheeler and Valparaiso, and stopped for the night at Wanatah, Laporte county. Wanatah officers arrested him on suspicion. Sheriff Sego, of Porter county, went to Wanatah and brought Barnard here Friday evening. Saturday there was a squabble over what county should try Barnard. It is a question of where he may be tried, as he committed the crime in one county, was arrested in another and jailed in a third.

The electrical storm which enlivened things in this city yesterday afternoon, developed into a cyclone east of Monroeville. Three large trees were blown across the Pittsburg track ahead of the Keystone express, delaying the train a few minutes At Van Wert orchards and native timber groves were badly damaged by the high winds.

The demonstration in honor of the triumphant return of the Zollinger battery boys last evening was rather premature, and a great portion of it wasted. The boys came home on the second section of No. 8. When the first section came in the band played and colored lights and other fireworks were set in operation. The reception committee and friends of the boys were greatly annoyed by the mistake.

It Saves the Children.

Mr. C. H Shawen, Wellsville, Kan., says: "It is with pleasure that I speak of the good Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy has done my family during the last fourteen years. In the most obstinate cases of summer complaint and diarrhoea among my children, it acted as a charm, making it never necessary to call in a physician. I can truthfully say that in my judgement, based on years of experience, there is not a medicine in the market that is its equal. For sale by druggists.

Krause's Headache Capsuls—Warranted.

Read This Letter From a Chicago Lady.

CHICAGO, 735 W. Adams St., April, 20, '91.

Mr. Norman Lichty, Des Moines, Ia.:

Dear Sir A sample of KRAUSE'S HEADACHE CAPSULES was left in my husband's office a few days since, and as I am subject to headaches—neuralgic, nervous, and in fact every other kind—he thoughtfully brought the sample box home. The very next day I had a chance to try them and ONE CAPSULE relieved me in less than half an hour. Next day I was attacked again, took another capsule with the same delightful result, in less than half an hour my head felt as well as ever, with no bad feeling as the after result. I have had these terrible headaches for twenty years, and have tried every remedy I ever heard of, but nothing I have ever taken has cured or relieved me as QUICKLY as KRAUSE'S HEADACHE CAPSULES. MRS. N. A. SKINNER.

"Have I any objections to your printing a portion of my letter? NO! If my testimony will induce any one who suffers with headache to buy your CAPSULES I will be glad."

THE OLD AND THE NEW.

No Change in the Tax Law Relative to Real Estate Assessment.

Much has been said about the increase of taxes on real estate on account of the new tax law. It is true that the assessment of real estate throughout the state was increased, but the law did not do it. With the exception of six words the section in the new law relating to the assessment of real estate is similar to the old law.

The provision of the new law reads as follows:

Real property shall be valued by the assessor as follows: Lands and the improvements and buildings thereon, or affixed thereto shall be valued at their full, true cash value, estimated at the price they would bring at a fair, voluntary private sale [not a forced or sheriff's sale] taking into consideration the fertility of the soil, the vicinity of the same to railroads, macadamized roads, clay roads, gravel roads and turnpike roads, state or county roads, cities, towns, villages, navigable rivers, water privileges on the same, or in the vicinity of the same, the location of the route of any canal or canals, with any other local advantages of situation. In lots and out-lots in all towns, cities or villages, with the improvements thereon or affixed thereto, shall be valued at their full cash value, as aforesaid, taking into consideration all the local advantages upon actual view of the premises. All lands and lots shall also be listed at such valuation, without taking into consideration any improvements, and this valuation, as well as the valuation with the improvements shall be set down in a proper column to be left for that purpose.

Following is the provision of the old law in the assessment of lands:

Real property shall be valued by the assessor as follows: Lands and the improvements and buildings thereon or affixed thereto shall be valued at their full fair cash value, estimated at the price they would bring at a fair voluntary sale, taking into consideration the fertility of the soil, the vicinity of the same to railroads, macadamized roads, clay roads, gravel roads, turnpike roads, state or county roads, cities, towns, villages, navigable rivers, water privileges on the same or in the vicinity of the same, the location of the route of any canal or canals, with any other local advantages of situation. In lots and out-lots in all towns, cities or villages with the improvements thereon or affixed thereto, shall be valued at their full fair cash value as aforesaid, taking into consideration all the local advantages, upon actual view of the premises. All lands and lots shall also be listed at such valuation, without taking into consideration any improvements; and this valuation with the improvements, shall be set down in a proper column to be left for that purpose.

It will be seen that the two sections are identical, with the exception of the words included in brackets in the new law "not a forced or sheriff's sale."

All lands and improvements are assessed by the township assessors. Under the old law they took an oath to assess lands "at their full true cash value." Under the new law they subscribe to the same oath. However, heretofore one assessor would appraise the land in his township at one-third its value, while the assessor of the adjoining township placed the full value on the real estate of his own township. By the same process the average value of lands in one county was fixed at $15 per acre, while in the next county the rate was $25 per acre. It was these inequalities that created a public sentiment in favor of an honest assessment. The assessor backed by this public sentiment complied with the law that has in reality been in force since 1881, and assessed lands and improvements "at their full true cash value."

In many cases Republican assessors, to make the law obnoxious, valued real estate too high. They and not the tax law should be held responsible.

HIGH PROTECTION.

In England a Thousand Years of It Created Pauperism.

Gentlemen who advocate high protection talk about England and the sufferings of English laborers. From the days of William the Conqueror until 1846, the highest kind of protection laws prevailed in that country, and the average wealth of the laboring people in 1840 was estimated at £44 per family. Under the high protection laws all the wealth of the country was concentrated in the hands of a very few, seven-eighths of the population being laborers, most of whom were barely able to earn the most meager subsistence.

Mulhall's Dictionary of Statistics tells us that since the passage of what are known as the free trade laws of England more than a million of English families have risen from the condition of day laborers to what he terms the middle class, meaning those comfortable, prosperous people whose incomes range above $5,000 a year. Mulhall also states that the rich families have decreased more than 60 per cent., and the wealth per family of this class more than 10 per cent.

He also shows that the average wealth of the working class has doubled during that period. In other words, under the English tariff laws the workingmen and poor classes are constantly getting richer, the middle class or people in comfortable circumstances are constantly increasing, having more than doubled in forty years, while the extremely rich have decreased both in numbers and wealth.

This proves that the principle of free trade, as it is called by the Republicans, or fair trade, or just tariff laws, as advocated by us—that is, tariff levied for the purpose of benefiting the whole people—has had the effect in England to decentralize wealth and to build up a large class of that character of people which alone makes a country great, prosperous and happy.

Nearly a thousand years of protective tariff prior to 1846 had divided the people of England a protected nobility owning millions on the one side, a small middle class of moderate means, and 20,000,000 people suffering abject poverty, many of them being little above pauperism.

Forty years of fair trade have decentralized wealth, reduced the number who possessed extreme wealth, almost abolished pauperism, and largely increased the thrifty middle class.

The very reverse has been the condition of the United States during the period of Republican control.—Speech of Representative Joseph Wheeler.

A Tariff Query.

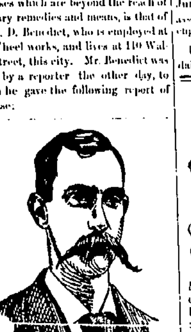

Remarkably enough, the only exports from the United States that have materially increased in volume and value, except wheat and corn, since the McKinley tariff went into operation are the manufactures of iron and steel. These are the manufactures, too, that next to woolen fabrics are covered with the heaviest protective duties. Yet, while thus heavily protected at home, they are able to compete successfully with the rival manufactures of Europe in all the open and free markets of the world.

If farm implements of every description, steam engines, saws and tools and other products of the skill and industry of American workers in iron and steel defy competition in foreign lands by reason of their superiority, why should they be hedged about by enormous protective duties in the home market? Is this because it is feared by legislative wisdom that American consumers are not as good judges of the qualities of iron and steel products as are the consumers of Australia, Canada and Mexico, and that if the duties should be reduced the markets of this country would be "flooded" with European manufactures of inferior workmanship? If this be not the reason, there can be no other motive for this policy than the spoliation of the masses of the American people for the profit of a favored few.—Philadelphia Record.

IT TAKES FAITH

To Believe That One Can be Cured of Certain Afflictions.

The latest notable instance which illustrates the skill and success of the Stackhouse Medical Institute, in relieving cases which are beyond the reach of ordinary remedies and means, is that of Mr. L. D. Benedict, who is employed at the Wheel works, and lives at 110 Wallace street, this city. Mr. Benedict was seen by a reporter the other day, to whom he gave the following report of his case:

MR. L. D. BENEDICT.

"My trouble began about four years ago, while I was living in Michigan, and manifested itself in the beginning, by acting like a bad cold in the head This cold became continuous, until my nose was stopped up all the time, either on one side or the other. My appetite was very poor and I began to loose flesh My eye-sight, which had always been good, began to gradually fail, and I frequently seemed to see spots in the air in front of my eyes My hearing became wonderfully impaired, on account of the continual roaring and hissing sound in my ears.

"At times when my nose was very badly stopped up, there was a discharge from my nose I could not sleep well at night; would get up in the morning feeling more tired than when I retired at night When I would sleep I was troubled by unpleasant dreams Upon arising in the morning my mouth was always dry and usually full of slime. Was also annoyed by frequent dizzy spells. I had a cough and it was generally worse in the morning.

"My case was truly deplorable when I first visited the Stackhouse Medical Institute. They did not promise great things for me, but simply said that they understood my case and believed that they would benefit me. I placed myself in their hands. In the course of a few weeks I noticed a decided change for the better and although all my disagreeable symptoms have not disappeared entirely I must say that I feel so much better that I will continue to take treatment until well I will be much pleased to answer all inquiries and would advise all who are afflicted to go and see the doctors"

RED JACKET.

The Statue of the Renowned Chief Unveiled.

BUFFALO, N. Y., June 22. The statue of Red Jacket, the renowned Seneca chief, was unveiled in Forest Lawn cemetery this afternoon. The exercises were very impressive and consisted of prayer by Rev Isaac Bardsot an Indian missionary, introductory remarks by President Hazard, of the Buffalo historical society, the unveiling by Chief John Jacket grandson of the famous chief, and ancient Iroquois rites pertinent to the occasion by Seneca and Cayuga chiefs. The statue is of bronze, measures eleven feet in height and stands on a base fourteen feet high.

A part of the Zollinger battery, with the Rifles and First Regiment band, went to the depot and acted as escort to the homecomers, who marched through the streets to the patriotic strains of "Marching Through Georgia," while a varied and beautiful pyrotechnic display was kept up along the line of march. It was a pretty demonstration and is another evidence of the popularity of the Zollinger battery.

The excursion of Summit City lodge No 36, A O. U. W., to Rome City yesterday was the largest one to that pleasure resort this season. It was the intention of those having the matter in charge that all who went should have an enjoyable time, and there is no question but what they succeeded. Music by the cornet band and by the brass quartet that accompanied the party enlivened things with sweet strains of music Barring one shower in the afternoon, the day was all that could be desired During the afternoon, T. D Neal, of Franklin, Ind., grand master workman of the order, delivered an interesting address on the benefits to be derived from a membership in the order. Two coach loads remained over for the late train and the evening was spent in a delightful manner. During the return trip to the city the only thing to mar the rest of all on the train was the snoring of Frank Purcell, who had fallen asleep.

Our guessing contest closed last evening The name of the winner and full particulars will be published in the daily papers as soon as the nominations are made. SAM, PETE & MAX

THE BAND WILL PLAY.

Emmett Commandery Will Leave Tomorrow to Attend the Big Convention at Toronto.

The fourteenth annual convention of the Knights of St John will meet at Toronto, Ontario, on Friday, June 24, 1892 This promises to be the largest gathering ever held in the history of the order The committee of arrangements at Toronto have been engetically at work preparing to give the visiting knights a royal reception and no labor will be spared on their part to see that their visitors will be pleasantly entertained. No better site could be selected for convention purposes than Toronto for the reason that it is situated at the head of Lake Ontario and within two hours east of Niagara Falls

The local committee which have been making arrangements for the Fort Wayne delegation has about completed its work and has assurance that between 300 and 400 people from this city will take advantage of the very low rate secured by the committee. Those desiring can take the sleeper right from here and without changing cars will be landed on the banks of Lake Ontario, where there will be in waiting the finest steamer that plies the waters of the lake to take the excursionists across to Toronto Stop over privileges will be given for Niagara Falls, Buffalo and Cleveland, all of which will have a tendency to make the trip a pleasant and tireless one. There will be only one uniformed body of men from this city, that being Emmett commandery, which organization has been preparing to go into the prize drill The boys are modest, but they insist on capturing the first prize, and then may make some of the older companies look after their laurels.

The Emmetts at least are deserving of no little praise for having made the effort to attend the convention in a body, and they have set an example worthy the emulation of other commanderies. The SENTINEL hopes they will get first honors. Capt. E. J. Lennon and his corps of assistants have been untiring in their efforts to make this commandery a first class military company, and much credit is due the genial and efficient captain for the pains he has taken with the boys

The following named knights will attend the convention from Fort Wayne: Col J H Roban, who will represent Emmett commandery in the convention. Major H C. Gradle, Adjutant E. J. Ehrman, Col A A Rhinart and others Emmett commandery will be composed of the following members: E J. Lennon, captain, B D Weyer, first lieutenant. W. W. Palmer, second lieutenant; John Luley, first sargeant; John C. McNulty, second sargeant; P T. Welsh, color bearer, J G. Noll, J. J. Studer, Peter Stein, W. Koehl, M. Greany, A. D. Palmer, A. E Waggoner, H Coolman, S J. Grandt, Joe Luley, John Trenmel, D. Barry, V. J. Baker, M. B. Dolion, John Boone, John Kennedy, P. B. Roth and D. Gorman.

The party will leave here tomorrow at 1 45 p m. over the Nickel Plate, and will return next Monday.

IT WAS KITTENISH.

The Lightning Was and It Performed Many Curious Freaks.

The electrical storm which visited this city yesterday afternoon was the most severe of any that has occurred in this vicinity for years. The air was so heavily charged that lightning flashes and deafening peals of thunder followed each other in such quick succession as to alarm many inhabitants. The wires caught the electricity and played havoc with telegraph instruments. Charles Walton was sitting at an instrument in the Pittsburg dispatchers' office, giving instructions to an operator in Chicago when suddenly the a blinding flash and a report like a gun sent him reeling from the table. Miss Ceyler, a lady operator in the Wabash office, was shocked in a similar way, only so severely that she remained unconscious for a time. The flag staff on Ryan's barn was knocked off and the roof partly torn off The chimney of the residence of Mr. Wm. Shulte, at No. 21 Clark street, was struck and one end of the building badly wrecked, but no one hurt. Mrs. Sophia Stein, clerk at Bureis' restaurant, received a shock, but soon recovered.

The house of Mr. Kleinschmidt, at No. 84 Clark street, Bloomingdale, was struck and set on fire and the fire department was summoned to extinguish the flames. An alarm was sent in from the Fleming Manufacturing works and a report was started that these works were on fire, which was untrue. The Kleinschmidt residence was damaged to the extent of about $50.

The residence of Samuel Heilbroner, 56 West Wayne street, was struck by lightning also The lightning did not knock down a chimney, and it is supposed it entered through an open window. Lightning struck in the saloon at the southeast corner of Calhoun and Holman streets and badly frightened the proprietor It also struck in John Hinton's restaurant and glanced off the dishes into the kitchen. Manager Perry, of the Western Union, says that in all his experience as an operator, yesterday's electric storm was by all odds the worst C. R Higgins, an other of the old operators of this part of the country, who was in the office with Mr Perry yesterday, joined the manager in this opinion The lightning arrester could not take care of such enormous quantities of the fluid, and it went shooting across the room from every wire. The lightning ran into all the Western Union self-winding electric clocks, but only one of them was destroyed It is the one located in the new saloon of J. Henry Auth at 138 Calhoun street The electrical apparatus of this clock was completely burned out and destroyed.

North of here the wind raged and the storm was more destructive At Rome City picnickers were panic stricken and fled for safety Trees were leveled and insecure buildings shaken from their foundations

Max Strander, who lives at the Berghan home, was stricken on Calhoun street and was conveyed in a carriage to the hotel She is confined to the bed in consequence

PASSED OVER.

Mrs. Eliza Brenton, an Old and Well Known Resident, Crosses the River of Death.

At 8 40 o'clock this morning Mrs Eliza Brenton, of 220 West Wayne street, passed over to the majority, the cause of death being heart disease and old age.

The Great Ruler has called home another old resident, whose life was one of great usefulness Mrs Brenton was the widow of Hon Samuel Brenton, who died March 29, 1869, and who was one of Allen county's most prominent residents, having been a minister of the Methodist church and serving the public in various offices, at the time of his death being a congressman Mrs. Brenton, whose maiden name was Miss Eliza Holmes, a daughter of Judge Andrew Holmes, of Shelby county, Kentucky, was married to Hon Samuel Brenton, at Crawfordsville, Ind., on the 3d of July, 1842 By her death the world loses a good woman. A social and amiable, kind and charitable character has crossed to those brighter shores

Surviving the deceased are the daughters, Mrs. M V. B Spencer and Miss Helen Brenton, and a son, Charles, who lives somewhere in the west Mrs. Marian Brenton, of 21 Madison street, is a daughter-in law

OTHER DEATHS.

Louis Zauner, of 71 Laselle street, died of consumption this morning at the age of twenty two years. The deceased was employed at the Bass foundry and his brother, Henry, is now employed in the machine department of that shop.

Edwin, the four months old child of Henry Holsheimer and wife, of 200 Gay street, died of cholera infantum this morning The funeral will be held Thursday morning at 10.30 o'clock from the house.

Samuel F., son of Mr and Mrs. C. F. Jarrett, of 24 Brandriff street, died of diphtheria, aged nine years The funeral took place this afternoon, and was private.

Mrs. Julia Robay died yesterday of dropsy, in St Joe township, at the age of fifty years. The funeral will be held tomorrow morning from the Catholic church in St Joe township.

Mrs. Mary Crawford, a widow residing at Arcola, died last night at the age of eighty-eight years. She had been sick four months. Death was caused by dropsy of the heart

James Williams, of 51 Force street, died of cancer of the stomach this morning after a lingering illness. Deceased was a brave soldier and fought in the Tenth Iowa infantry, and recently came here from Adrian, Mich. His age was fifty-one years. A post mortem was held this afternoon.

The funeral of Mrs. S. Bash occurs Friday afternoon, at 4 o'clock, from the residence, 210 West Berry street, Rev. Leeper officiating

The funeral of John Taylor, aged eighty three years, who died of paralysis at 417 East Washington street, was held at 2 o'clock today from the house The deceased was born at Leeds, England, in 1809. He came to this country while very young and to this city in 1862, when he became interested in real estate, and in a few years was the owner of a large estate The deceased leaves a wife, whose death is expected almost daily, and four children. They are: Mr. William C. Taylor, of California, Mrs Elizabeth Rust, of Sparta, Ill., and Mrs. Henry C. Taylor and Mrs. Louis Mohr, of this city He had numerous grand-children and a dozen great grand-children.

This morning at his home, 71 Laselle street, occurred the death of Louis Zauner, aged twenty-one years. Some four months ago he was taken ill with la grippe, and since then has been confined to his home. This was the cause of his death He leaves a young wife to whom he was married last October. The funeral will occur Saturday morning at 9 o'clock from the St. Peter's Catholic church. He was a member of the machinists' union, I. A. of M., and was formerly employed at the Bass works, but lately at the electric light works. He had a large number of friends, to whom his death will be sad news.

Three through fast trains to Toronto tomorrow, via the Wabash. Return tickets only $6.00.

THE attempted suicide of Guy de Maupassant in a fit of delirium brought on by overwork is one more striking warning against that extravagant mental stress which is so much indulged in by the intellectual workers of to-day, but it will probably be no more effective than have been the many which have preceded it. The fever of modern life hurries men on with a power which is all but resistless. Men in these days desire to live two or three lives at once. There is nothing which they are willing to forego, and since the circumstances of the time bring so many things within reach, they constantly disregard the limitations which are imposed upon man by human weakness and rush on to disastrous ends with blind disregard of the consequences, to which it is the most obvious madness to close the eyes. In the end they gain less of life or of enjoyment, and there is nothing which they enjoy to the full, because there is nothing to which they are able to give the whole attention; but they grasp at everything so eagerly that nothing in the end remains firmly in their hands.

THERE are a great many mean fathers and mothers in the world, although it is generally believed that they are reverenced. More fathers than mothers are mean, though: every one must admit that.

FIRE ALARM WIRES USELESS.

The District Messenger Service Averts a Conflagration Near the Fleming Manufacturing Company's Works.

Yesterday when fire was discovered by the Fleming Manufacturing company fortunately the firm had a box of the Fort Wayne District Telegraph company and turned in the alarm by this means, and in a few moments the department responded and controlled the fire. The District Telegraph company is fast coming to the front with its service. It places boxes whenever desired by patrons at a uniform rate of 50 cents a month. By simply touching a button you can turn in an alarm of fire, call a messenger, your doctor, the police or any emergency call. It costs the patrons nothing for putting in the box, 50 cents per month being the entire cost. The company also has a night watch service and a full line of electrical goods. For further information call on or address the Fort Wayne District Telegraph company, 15 West Columbia street.

IN defense of herself against anarchists France is about to make destruction of property by explosion a capital crime The law-abiding people of Paris are openly threatened with a campaign of violence by these license-loving sons of unrest. They not only destroy and do as they please, no matter who is hurt, but they claim the right to do so. The proper place for an anarchist to stay is in the country where he was born, usually under a strong imperial government or despotism. A free country only spoils him, by letting him loose.

BOSTON STORE.

We have the finest stock in the city at present of the Popular Point De'Ireland Laces. They are very scarce, as we expected they would be, but we bought heavily while they were plentiful and have a fine assortment while others have very little.

Just reduced from 30c to 20c, a lot of window screens, 19 inches high and will fit a window 33 to 39 inches wide.

Ladies' Shirt Waists, Chemisettes, Collars and Ties in great variety.

New Outing, Gingham and Calico, in summer styles, and New Challies, 5c, 10c, 12½c and 20c, in the prettest designs of the season.

For working men we have just made a large purchase of the famous Louisville, Kentucky, Jean Pants, lined and unlined; also Fancy Cottonade Pants that are marvels of style and cheapness.

Children's Parasols, Ladies' Parasols, Ladies' and Gents' Umbrellas, at prices that excite our pity for the manufacturers. We wonder how they can make them so cheap, and yet so good.
